SWEEPING TRANSIT SHIFT IN COUNTY IS AUTHORIZED, $220,000 IN ADDED FARES

PLAN APPROVED BY P.S.C. CALLS FOR REROUTING WITHIN 60 DAYS

Proposal Ends Duplication by Public Service and County Transit — Two on Board Oppose Dropping 2 Car Lines.

By HERBERT A. TRASK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 10—Large-scale rearrangement of mass transportation service in suburban St. Louis county, which will cost transit passengers $220,000 a year in additional fares, was approved today on a temporary experimental basis under a 3-to-2 decision by the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The commission majority authorized St. Louis Public Service Co. and St. Louis County Transit Co. to put into effect within 60 days a comprehensive plan for realignment of their county routes, designed to eliminate costly duplication of service by the two firms and to improve their financial condition.

But Chairman Morris E. Osborn and Commissioner Charles L. Henson vigorously dissented, in separate sharply worded opinions, from a major finding by the majority permitting Public Service to abandon its Kirkwood 01 and Creve Coeur 05 streetcar lines and allowing County Transit to substitute bus service on these routes.

Double Fare, Same Trip.

Both declared it was against public interest to release the stronger Public Service Co. from its responsibility to furnish service on the lines in favor of the smaller and financially overburdened County Transit Co. They pointed out that Kirkwood and Creve Coeur line passengers who are now able to travel downtown on one fare, will be forced to pay a double fare for the same trip.

Osburn also objected on the ground the route rearrangement plan was proposed principally to give financial relief to the County Transit Co., but that under the plan the major benefits would go to Public Service. Public Service would obtain an estimated net improvement of $231,000 a year under the plan, while County Transit's improvement would be about $87,000 a year, it was reported.

Revised Routing.

The County Transit service realignment plan was approved on a trial basis by Commissioners Kyle D. Williams, E. L. McClintock and John P. Randolph in virtually the same form that the two companies requested in their applications. Under the plan, seven routes will be replaced by

Widow Who Failed to Wear Black Released on $10,000 Bond in Cuba

Former Utica (Mich.) Woman Charged With Two Others in Murder of Husband.

MRS. KAREN NELSON

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 10 (AP)—Mrs. Karen Nelson, who denies she murdered her wealthy planter husband, was released on $10,000 bond last night after three months in jail. The 25-year-old widow, formerly of Utica, Mich., expressed hope "this nightmare will end in complete exoneration."

The United States Embassy, aided by the Cuban press and her wealthy father-in-law, Swan Nelson, had tried for three months to obtain her release. Her husband, Alvar Nelson, 31, was found dead of a bullet wound Dec. 11, 1949. A coroner's jury found the wound was inflicted accidentally.

Violated Custom.

On March 17, Mrs. Nelson and two plantation employes were charged with murder and imprisoned. The two men also were released yesterday. Mrs. Nelson's failure to follow the Cuban custom of wearing heavy mourning was said to have caused suspicion.

Mrs. Nelson said after the bail hearing:

"Of course, I would have preferred that the court drop the charges, but their action at least releases us from prison and for that I am deeply grateful. I am sure this nightmare will end in complete exoneration for all of us, because I know we are all innocent."

No date has been fixed for the trial.

Mrs. Nelson was held in Cuba's newest and most modern prison at Guanajay. This is her story of her husband's death:

"Alvar, who had been held up, robbed and attacked several times, always carried a gun. Without awakening me, he had gone out to start an engine to pump water for the batey (that collection of little houses around a plantation). The first I knew anything had happened was when I was awakened by his tapping on the window of our bedroom and calling to me in great distress, 'Karen, I'm shot.'

Version of Shooting.

"A few minutes later I asked him what had happened and he said, 'the pistol fell.' He died a short while later, before the doctor came."

When Mrs. Nelson was arrested more than three months later, her father-in-law said:

"I will spend my last cent to see that this innocent girl goes free."

The Nelsons met at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., where he had gone to study Spanish and English literature, and she was studying nursing. They were married in Utica and came to Cuba where Nelson took over management of his father's plantation.

The Nelsons are of Swedish descent. Mrs. Nelson is Danish-born but an American citizen. They have a child, Tony, who has been cared for by Mrs. Nelson's mother while she was in jail.

U.S. LAUNCHES MAJOR ANTI-TRUST DRIVE IN ALASKA

Suits Started Against 23 Firms, 138 Persons, 2 Trade Groups Over 'Collusive' Deals.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The biggest string of anti-trust prosecutions ever undertaken at one time in a single area tightened today about a sizable segment of business in Alaska.

Prosecutions were started yesterday in Anchorage against 23 corporations, 138 individuals and two liquor dealer associations. Attorney General J. Howard McGrath said last night that more actions are to come.

McGrath announced that the move was directed against what the Justice Department described as "collusive arrangements among business groups which have obstructed the development and expansion of the Alaskan economy."

"In recent years, Alaska has become of great strategic importance as a defense area," McGrath said. "Since economic development and defense are inseparable, it is essential that barriers to the expansion of trade be speedily removed."

He noted that President Truman, in recommending statehood for the territory more than a year ago, said it was important to the country to open up Alaskan economic opportunities "on a sound, long-term basis."

Based on 10 sealed indictments returned last Monday by a federal grand jury at Anchorage, the actions were directed against several lines of trade, including shipping, fuel supplies, food, the liquor business, taxicabs and dry cleaning services.

According to the Justice Department, the most significant of the prosecutions was a double-barreled indictment and civil suit against Alaska Steamship Co. of Seattle and five of its officers, including the president, Gilbert W. Skinner.

The Attorney General said that because it is the only line serving the territory, Alaska Steamship "virtually controls the economy of Alaska."

The company was accused in the court actions of excluding competition in passenger and freight trade in Alaskan waters by "a wide variety of coercive and illegal means."

In Seattle, the company issued this statement:

"We are determined to fight these charges and to bring into plain view the motives of those who have instigated and sponsored them. We are satisfied that a full trial of this matter before a fair and impartial tribunal will vindicate the company and its personnel."

WESTERN UNION RANKED SECOND AS RACE BETTING WIRE SERVICE

Senate Crime Report Lists Continental as First — Charges 'Near Monopoly' by Capone Syndicate.

By a Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 10—Continental Press Service ranks first in importance to the nation's bookmakers and Western Union Telegraph Co. second, the Senate Commerce Commission said in a report issued this afternoon.

Ranked in importance to bookies after Continental, the racing news monopoly controlled by the Chicago Capone syndicate, and Western Union, were the following agencies:

American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Associated Press, United Press and International News Service, press services.

Transradio Press.

Continental Press Service, with headquarters in Cleveland, is the major source of racing news used illegally by bookies, the Senate committee said.

Continental a Near Monopoly.

"The facts support the thesis that Continental today has a near monopoly in transmission of racing news which ultimately reaches the bookmakers in the country," the report said.

"It is obvious that so long as press associations and racing publications may continue to transmit racing information, and daily newspapers and specialized racing papers to publish it, the necessary information with which a bookmaker can operate would remain available.

"It is equally obvious from testimony that there is a comingling and intermingling of interests and problems between such divergent and different operations as Continental and the press associations; Continental and the telegraph and telephone carriers; the press associations and the racing publications."

Continental, which had a net profit of $692,207 in 1949 before taxes, operates a legal business and has no direct connection with bookmakers, the report said. But there was sharp criticism of some distributors to whom Continental sells its news.

Apparent Reference to Molasky.

Some and "perhaps many" of these distributors are "not without blemishes in character," the report asserted. "The evidence showed, for example, that one spent a year in jail for income tax evasion" (apparently a reference to William Molasky of St. Louis, president of Pioneer News Service, St. Louis outlet for Continental); "many have had brushes with the law for bookmaking and other violations.

"It is obvious that in this business it has been found desirable to have men who do not shrink from enforcing their will outside the law." In scores of cases, the report continued, distributors of racing news "may be well-known local hoodlums or gangsters who are the subject of much notoriety."

Referring to the relationships between Continental, telegraph and telephone companies and press services, the report declared:

"While one may shun the other as a pariah and disclaim any concern in the other's affairs, all have economic and legal interests in the same commodity. All seemingly agree on only this—they have nothing to do with the bookmaker; they are not interested in him or his welfare; they are not engaged in an illegal business; stop the other fellow but let me alone.

The committee urged the Senate to approve a bill which would war certain pre-race news from interstate transmission by telephone or telegraph from horse and dog tracks.

It was disclosed in the report that a high-powered radio set in California is reciving Continental's racing news broadcast from Mexico for relay by telephone to bookmakers.

SENATE TEST VOTE ON RENT CONTROL SET FOR MONDAY; 16-HOUR SESSION

Action on Wherry Motion to Send Bill Back to Committee Is Agreed on After Filibuster by Cain.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—A weary Senate agreed early today to a test vote Monday on rent controls, after a 12-hour filibuster by Senator Cain (Rep.), Washington.

The agreement which brought adjournment at 2:40 a.m. was for a vote at 11 a.m. Monday on a motion by Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska to send the bill back to the Banking Committee—a move which, if successful, almost certainly would kill the measure.

When the Senators finally closed up shop, they had been at work for 16 hours and 40 minutes—one of the longest sessions in recent years.

The decision to use Wherry's motion for the bill's first test represented something of a setback for Democratic Leader Scott Lucas of Illinois. He had kept the Senate in continuous session in the hope of getting an agreement to vote on the bill itself.

However, Democratic leaders said later they felt they had enough votes to beat back the Wherry move in time to get a final vote on passage of the bill Monday.

Provisions of Bill.

The measure would continue federal rent controls for six months beyond the present June 30 expiration date. Local communities could vote themselves an additional six months of rent ceilings before Dec. 31, 1950.

A similar bill is pending before the House, which had canceled its original plans to vote on the measure this week at the urging of Lucas.

Opponents of the bill, led by Cain, had hoped to delay a Senate vote until the House acted, in the belief that the measure would not fare so well on that side of the Capitol.

With that presumably in mind, Cain started his delaying tactics Wednesday. The Senate took time out Thursday to push through 241 minor bills, under an agreement which let Cain regain the floor yesterday.

At 10:58 a.m. he launched his one-man filibuster. He continued, with only brief interruptions, until shortly after 11 p.m. last night.

Breaks Own Talking Record.

He thus broke his own talking record of six hours and 45 minutes, set in March 1949, when he spoke against President Truman's nomination of Mon C. Wallgren as chairman of the National Security Resources Board. The appointment was later withdrawn.

The 44-year-old Cain fell considerably short of the filibuster record of 18 hours and 23 minutes, set by the late Senator Robert LaFollette Sr., of Wisconsin in May 1908. Senator Huey Long once spoke for 15 hours and 35 minutes.

When Cain finally quit the Senators became involved in a wrangle which kept them in session almost four hours longer.

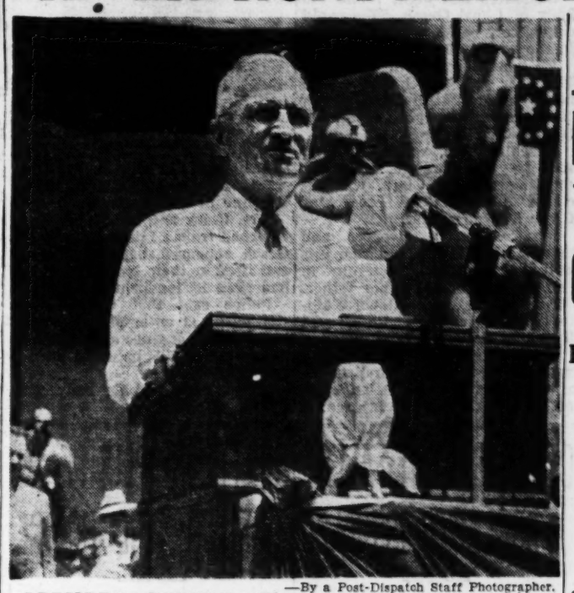

For two hours the Senators present waited around for enough additional members to show up so the Senate could transact business. When 48 Senators finally responded to their names, Senator Knowland (Dem.), California, suddenly moved to adjourn.

While that motion lost decisively, only 46 Senators voted on it, once again raising the quorum question. In the resulting squabble, Lucas moved to order the sergeant-at-arms to arrest absentee Senators—the first time such a move had been made in some eight years.

Lucas's motion carried, but enough additional Senators soon

TRUMAN WALKS IN PARADE WITH OLD COMRADES BEFORE RIVERFRONT MEMORIAL TALK

JOHNSON, OTHER DIGNITARIES JOIN 10,000 MARCHERS OF 35TH DIVISION

President Attends City Hall Reception and Lunch, Makes Plea for Peace in Tribute to War Dead.

By HARRY WILENSKY
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

President Truman marched on foot with his comrades of World War I in the annual reunion parade of the Thirty-fifth Infantry Division this afternoon before winding up his St. Louis visit with an important foriegn policy address.

The parade, in which more than 10,000 marchers took part, moved through downtown St. Louis to the Mississippi riverfront, where the Chief Executive delivered his address in dedicating the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial.

President in Front Rank.

The parade got under way promptly at 1 o'clock from Seventeenth and Olive streets. President Truman was in the front rank, preceded only by two ranks of 12 military officers, all war veterans selected for that privileged position. Among those in the front ranks was Maj. Gen. Ralph Truman, a first cousin of the President, who commanded the Thirty-fifth Division in the early part of World War II.

Marching with the President in a wide row were Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson, Gov. Forrest Smith, Mayor Joseph M. Darst, Peter S. Miravalle, new president of the Thirty-fifth Division Association; Frank E. Spina of Kansas City, four Secret Service men and two detectives.

Next came members of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery, the unit Capt. Harry S. Truman led through some of the heaviest fighting of World War I.

The procession moved east on Olive street to Fourth street and south on Fourth past the old Courthouse, where President Truman left the colmun to review the 124 participating unots. From the Courthouse the parade moved south an Fourth to Walnut and thaneast to Main street and the memorial dedication point.

Greeted With "Hi, Harry."

The President, acompanied by the Mayor, drove from City Hall to the parade starting point in the chartreuse convertible he has used throughout his St. Louis visit. Spectators lined three and four deep applauded the Chief Executive, and there were shouts of "Hi, Harry!" and "Hello, Mr. President." A band broke into the strains of "Hail to the Chief."

For a few minutes the President's automobile was the center of a great hubbub as the Chief Executive waved to onlookers and even shook hands with some spectators. Worried Secret Service men darted here and there through the crowd, maintaining an anxious watch.

Before the parade began the President signed many autograph books. He was in high good humor, and many onlookers obviously were impressed by his complete lack of ostentation.

Explosion of three aerial bombs was a signal for the start of the parade.

Twits Reporters.

Just as he began to march with his comrades, the President glanced up at reporters and photographers riding ahead in press trucks and called out, "I'm going to get you buys out of that truck and make you walk. I've got enough help here to do it." With that he waved an arm toward his military aides and the secret service men.

Since it was Saturday and not many persons were working in downtown offices, there were only a few flutters of confetti from office windows. But waving and cheering from spectators were almost constant along lower Olive street. The President waved back and tipped his hat.

Sidewalks Lined.

Crowds ranged from a single row of spectators at some points to lines seven and eight deep in the 700 block of Olive. As the parade passed Sixteenth and Olive many looked on from rear fire escapes of the Downtown Y.M.C.A. on Locust. Several spectators stood on the roof of the "Y."

Parked near Sixteenth and Olive was a "40 and 8" locomotive of the American Legion fun-loving organization. Occupants of the locomotive added to the din with whistle blasts.

Truman Just Battery Captain Again at Reunion Breakfast

Harry Truman, Commander in Chief of the nation's military forces, was just a captain of artillery when he breakfasted today with 65 of the 153 living veterans of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery unit which he led through heavy fighting in France in World War I. The gay breakfast, a feature of the annual division reunion, was held at 7:30 o'clock in the Crystal room at Hotel Jefferson.

Smiling and shaking the outstretched hands of his old comrades, the Chief Executive walked to the speaker's table, where he took a seat between Eugene P. Donnelly, Kansas City attorney who was a coropral in Battery D, and Fred L. Schmidt, secretary-treasurer of the battery association.

Opens With Prayer.

The breakfast opened with a prayer by John A. O'Sullivan. It was explained that he was acting for the Very Rev. Msgr. L. Curtis Tiernan, honorary chaplain of the battery, who was unable to attend. O'Sullivan sported a heavy brown beard, grown for the Kansas City centennial celebration.

The atmosphere of the breakfast was informal, and the President frequently interrupted his meal to shake hands or give autographs. The hearty menu consisted of strawberries with cream, Missouri ham, bacon, scrambled eggs, country sausage, fried potatoes, hot biscuits, toast, jellies and preserves, sweet rolls and coffee.

At the conclusion of the meal the guests of the Battery were introduced. These included Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson; former Maj. Gen. Ralph Truman, the President's first cousin; J. Monroe Johnson, chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission; Brig. Gen. Louis H. Renfrow, assistant to the Secretary of Defense, and Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross.

Mock Cabinet Session.

The group stood in silence as Toastmaster Donnelly read the names of the 53 deceased members of the battery. Then the President's former mates swung into the frolic phase of their get-together. A group led by Donnelly and O'Sullivan held a mock cabinet meeting in which each "secretary" reported on the condition of his department.

In reply to questions by Donnelly, who played the part of the President, the "cabinet" sang a refrain, "Yes Sir, No Sir, How Do You Like your Jam, Sir?" The refrain apparently referred to World War I days when the President, as battery commander, had his breakfast served by an orderly.

The "Secretary of Defense" reported on the condition of the battery: "Blood pressure normal, leaditis eliminated and no waistline more than 56 inches." Another "cabinet member" observed that the President "had devel-

50-CAR LANDLORD MOTORCADE HONKS PAST TRUMAN HOTEL

A motorcade of about 50 automobiles, decorated by the Real Property Owners' League of St. Louis with banners urging decontrol of rents, moved past Hotel Jefferson, where President Truman was staying, promptly at 9:30 a.m. today. There was no indication the President was aware of the incident.

The parade of automobiles assembled at St. Louis House, 2345 Lafayette avenue, and drove downtown and north in Twelfth past the hotel. Drivers of the machines sounded horns loudly as they passed.

William C. Howard, league official, said that 20 of the automobiles were en route to Washington, where members hope to confer with Congressmen about rent controls. Others will go by trains and busses.

TRUMAN NAMES BUDDY AT REUNION FOR KANSAS POST

President Truman has given one of his wartime buddies a nice reunion present.

Joseph F. Coyle, who served in Battery D under "Capt. Harry," has just been notified of his appointment as postmaster of Kansas City, Kan. He received a telegram with the good news from his office on his arrival in St. Louis to attend the Thirty-fifth Division reunion.

Coyle suffered eight shrapnel wounds in the Battle of the Argonne. He is now city auditor of Kansas City, Kan. His appointment awaits confirmation by the Senate.

GORILLA 'BUSHMAN' ILL BUT DOCTORS KEEP DISTANCE

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—Bushman, a massive, ugly-faced gorilla who is regarded as the world's most prized zoo animal, is gravely ill.

The ape, Chicago's biggest single zoo attraction for some 20 years, was reported suffering from the combined effects of arthritis, heart disease and old age.

"He might die in the next five minutes or he may live a year," said Dr. Wesley Young, managing director of the Anti-Cruelty Society and for many years head veterinary at Lincoln Park Zoo.

The veterinarians attending Bushman diagnosed his illness from a distance. They said that even in his weakened condition it would be impossible to enter Bushman's cage to examine him.

No one has entered the huge gorilla's cage since 1936. The bar was ordered after Bushman, then weighing 150 pounds, pulled his 185-pound trainer down a flight of stairs.

Bushman is 22 years old and said to be the oldest gorilla in captivity. He weighs 550 pounds and is 6 feet 2 inches tall. The strength of his hands is immense, veterinarians said, and even if he were unconscious his reflexes might seriously injure a man.

3 HURT WHEN PLANE HITS BUILDINGS OF AVIATION SCHOOL

TULSA, Okla., June 10 (AP)—An Army C-47 plane carrying 18 persons crashed into three aviation school barracks on a take-off this morning, injuring three persons, two of them critically.

All those hurt were employes of the Spartan School of Aeronautics and were in the three buildings sheared by the plane's wing after it ripped through a fence at the end of a runway.

Witnesses said the craft never got more than three feet off the ground. Its impact with the fence, soft ground beyond the runway, and prompt action by the airport fire crew probably averted a greater casualty toll. Fire broke out in one engine after the crash but it was put out quickly.

The injured were Alma Puckett, 61 years old, and Amuel A. Kerr, 59, both of Tulsa, and J. W. Long, 67, of nearby Sand Springs. All are maintenance employes of the Spartan School of Aeronautics. Each was in a different barracks located one behind the other at the edge of the airport. Save for the injured men, the barracks sliced by the wing were empty.

The craft came to a stop with its tail resting against a fourth barracks in which 60 men were sleeping.

750 QUIT FOR HOUR AND HALF, TIE UP 28-STORY HOTEL

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—A walkout by 750 employes of the 28-story Hotel Statler halted practically all services for an hour and a half yesterday.

Guests were left to their own resources as bellhops, doormen, waitresses, kitchen help, cooks and elevator operators left their jobs to attend a union meeting on the hotel's mezzanine floor. Emergency elevator service was maintained, however.

The workers are members of the AFL Hotel Trades Council, which is conducting city-wide negotiations for wage increases. The negotiations are being conducted with the Hotel Association of the City of New York.

POLICEMAN TURNS HOLDUP MAN—FOR GROOM'S PANTS

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—Police Sgt. Thomas O'Grady suspended official business at Town Hall Station last night to give the suspenders off his back to a prospective bridegroom in distress.

Joseph Nedza, 22 years old, who is to be married today, went to the station in search of a pair of suspenders. He told O'Grady the dress suit he rented was minus suspenders. None of his friends had any. He couldn't find a store which sold suspenders.

O'Grady still had a belt for his pants.

Sick Gypsy Boy 'More Dangerous Than a Criminal' Hunted in 2 States

TOLEDO, O., June 10 (UP)—Ohio and Michigan state police joined Toledo police and Lucas county sheriff's deputies in a hunt for a sick gypsy boy today, described as "more dangerous than any criminal."

The boy, 8-year-old Stanley Mitchell, was brought to Riverside Hospital early yesterday by his parents, suffering with what doctors at the hospital diagnosed as a form of meningitis. Dr. Claypool of the hospital staff told the parents, who gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mitchell of Battle Creek, Mich., that the boy would need a spinal puncture. They grabbed the child and fled.

Shortly after noon, they entered the office of child specialist Dr. Donald C. Mebane. He examined the child and came to the same conclusion—that the boy had meningitis. He offered to take the child to a hospital and have a spinal puncture made for definite proof as to the type of meningitis. Once again the couple seized the boy and fled, but Dr. Mebane got their license number. He said the car was a red Ford convertible.

Dr. Walter H. Hartung, Toledo health commissioner, said it is imperative the boy be found.

"If he has cerebral meningitis, he may infect other children or even adults," he said. He indicated that a man named Miller—known locally as king of the gypsies—might have some knowledge of the Mitchells's whereabouts, but said he had not been located yet.

Police searched two carnivals, but found nothing.

Dr. Hartung said charges might be brought against the parents if the boy dies without medical care.

City Hall Workers Set Hot Pace Restoring Air Cooler for Truman

Electricians worked frantically this morning to repair an air-conditioning unit in Mayor Joseph M. Darst's private board room in time for the Mayor's luncheon at which President Truman was the honored guest.

Both units providing cool air for the room broke down early today, apparently from an overload on the line serving the equipment and a number of hot plates, which were plugged in for the luncheon. The latter appliances were hastily removed and by the time the President and other luncheon guests arrived one air-conditioner was working and everything was in order.

Earlier, the morning sun had heated the room, paralleling the rise in temper of the electricians on whom a major share of responsibility for the President's comfort suddenly fell. With a temperature outside of only 74 degrees, windows were opened and the entering breeze, plus the artificially cooled air, made the room temperature comfortable.

The electricians said it would be necessary to dismantle the second airconditioning unit next week to make necessary repairs.

ALLIES REJECT RUSSIAN DEMAND TO WITHDRAW ALL BERLIN TROOPS

Three Commanders Say They See No Connection Between Soviet Proposal and Plan to Hold City Election.

BERLIN, June 10 (AP)—The Western Allies formally rejected today a Russian demand for the withdrawal of all occupation troops from Berlin as the price for holding city-wide elections.

The three western commandants informed the Soviet deputy commandant, Col. Alexei Jelisarov, by letter that they backed the stand of West Berlin's city government, which already had turned down the Russian demand.

The western commandants told Jelisarov they failed to understand the connection between elections and the withdrawal of Allied garrisons. The presence of Allied troops, they said, had not interfered with previous elections.

Other Conditions Rejected.

The West also rejected in detail most of the other seven conditions outlined by the Russians.

The commandants repeated their desire not only for free elections but for city-wide freedom of activity for all democratic political parties. They also invited the Russians to return to the four-power Allied Kommandatura, from which the Soviets walked out in 1948.

They made it clear that restoration of the Kommandatura must be based on procedure that would "permit expeditious dispatch of business and effective functioning of the city government, in particular with the exclusion of the right of veto."

A dispute between the West German Government at Bonn and the state of Lower Saxony came to light today. The Christian Democratic party of Konrad Adenauer, West German president, demanded the ouster of Guenther Gereke, Agriculture Minister for Lower Saxony, because he conferred with East Germany's Communist Deputy Premier. The party's demand for Gereke's ouster said "a man who sits down at the same table with a traitor cannot be a minister of a German state."

Gereke, a Christian Democrat, said the two had discussed "mutual exchange of goods" between East and West Germany. Trade negotiations between the West and East German Governments have been deadlocked by Eastern failure to make deliveries under a current trade agreement.

Cabinet Sends Telegram.

Adenauer's Cabinet sent the Minister President of Lower Saxony a telegram expressing "utmost surprise" at the meeting between Gereke and Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht. It was Ulbricht who negotiated the recent pact with Poland by which a large slice of East Germany was ceded to the Poles.

Gereke contended that when he talked with Ulbricht he did not know of the pact. He said he opposed that East German action.

The Bonn Government, in a formal public statement, said "the so-called government of the Soviet zone has no right to speak for the German people."

Neither of the German governments recognizes the other, so the Western government did not protest directly to its Russian zone rival.

American and British government spokesmen have said their countries did not recognize the Russian zone's authority to negotiate the border agreement. At the 1945 Potsdam conference, it was agreed that the border could be determined finally only by a peace treaty.

Religious Issue.

Meanwhile Evangelical Bishop Otto Dibelius has asked East Germany's Premier, Otto Grotewohl, if his Communist-dominated government is trying to split the church's 14,000,000 membership.

A leader in the fight to prevent enrollment of clergymen in East Germany's Red-dominated "national front," Bishop Dibelius, in a letter made public yesterday, also demanded clarification of several anti-church orders and Socialist Unity (Communist) party resolutions.

The exchange followed an uneasy, month-long truce between church and state. In April, after strong church attacks on the government,

Killer of Pontiac (Mich.) Woman Takes Own Life as He Promised

Admirer Is Found Shot to Death Near Auto in Woods—Jealousy Case, Police Say.

PONTIAC, Mich., June 10 (AP)—The middle-aged and lovelorn admirer who killed socially prominent Mrs. Thelma Clark came to his own death as he had promised.

Searchers last night found the body of Lloyd Gesch, 50-year-old contractor, beside his automobile in the woods 10 miles from here.

He had been shot in the heart. The deer rifle which police said he had used in killing Mrs. Clark, 39, women's city golf champion, lay between his legs.

Gesch's death, which a friend said he had foretold after the shooting of Mrs. Clark, was declared a suicide by Prosecutor Clyde D. Underwood.

Mrs. Clark, a divorcee and mother of a 12-year-old son, was killed at 3:45 a.m. yesterday in front of the home of her father, Raymond Gorsline, a General Motors Corp. executive. Police said it was an evident case of jealousy.

In the gunfire Mrs. Clark's mother, Mrs. Hettie Gorsline, 58, and Charles Moore, 38, an automobile salesman, were injured. A chip of concrete ripped from the sidewalk by a bullet struck Mrs. Gorsline in the chest.

Mrs. Clark and Moore had just returned from a tavern visit when Gesch appeared, began a dispute and fired at them, police said. He had been hiding behind a tree.

About midnight his body was found.

CENTRALIA BOY FALLS FROM AUTO, IS KILLED

Child, 3½, Opens Door as He Reaches for Toy, Plunges to Highway.

Kenneth Kasten, 3½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kasten of Centralia, Ill., died yesterday at St. Anthony's Hospital of head and other injuries suffered earlier when he fell out of the rear door of an automobile driven by his father.

The accident occurred as the elder Kasten was driving north in Missouri Highway 141, between Maxville and Fenton. Mrs. Kasten said the boy reached for a toy he had dropped to the floor of the machine and, in doing so, accidentally opened the right rear door. He fell to the hard surface of the roadway.

Mrs. Kasten screamed, her husband halted the automobile and they ran back along the road and picked up the child. Kasten then drove to St. Anthony's here, where the boy died shortly after arrival.

SENATE TEST VOTE ON RENT CONTROL SET FOR MONDAY

There was still more debate before the Senators finally agreed wearily to vote Monday on Wherry's motion to recommit the bill.

Cain sipped coffee, milk and chocolate as he pressed his one-man campaign to wear out supporters of the extension measure.

Sticks Close to Topic.

Most of the time he stuck close to the subject of rent controls, passing restlessly in the center of the chamber. He did stray at one time, to his pet interest—golf. He was particularly interested in the National Open tournament being played at Ardmore, Pa., and in order to keep up on the results, he read newspaper accounts aloud on the Senate floor, with his own expert analysis furnished free.

He said the proposed legislation would deny the right of "free and collective bargaining" among citizens. He said it would constitute an "indefensible violation of property rights," and would force "involuntary servitude on millions of small, thrifty, God-fearing property owners." He read from newspaper articles dealing with the issue, and quoted telegrams from persons supporting his stand.

Toward the end, he got a little assistance.

Senator Morse (Rep.), Oregon, who has favored rent controls in the past, arose to make clear that he will vote against the present measure on grounds that rent ceilings are no longer needed. Senator Hoey (Dem.), North Carolina, who usually votes with the Administration, also announced his opposition to the bill.

Despite these signs that they were losing some support, Democratic leaders stuck to their prediction that the Senate would pass the bill. If so, the House probably will act early next week.

Illinois G.O.P. for Home-rule Rent Control If U.S. Bill Fails.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10 (UP)—The Illinois Republican state committee has gone on record in favor of rent controls for Illinois cities if federal controls lapse, but only on a local option, home-rule basis.

The committee, meeting yesterday in Springfield, declared unanimously that "we favor rent controls in cities where decontrol would result in hardship cases, but the problem is local and not state-wide in character."

The committee said Gov. Adlai Stevenson was to blame for the absence of state rent controls at this time because he failed to ask for extension of the state control law which expired shortly after he took office in 1949. Committee members urged Stevenson to call a special session of the Legislature at an early date in order to pass a state rent control statute with a home-rule proviso.

Stevenson already has said he will call a special session if federal controls lapse.

KILLED IN PLUNGE FROM RAIL BRIDGE

Youth Jumps or Falls in Effort to Escape Approaching Train.

Paul D. McGlaughlin, 305 Oak road, Times Beach, was killed last night when he jumped or fell 30 feet from a Missouri Pacific railroad trestle, a half mile northeast of United States Highway 66 at Eureka, Mo., while attempting to avoid being run down by a train.

His brother, Frankin, 9 years old, reported that he and Paul, 20, were walking on the trestle when they heard a train approaching. Franklin said he jumped toward the center of the trestle, over which run two sets of tracks, and that Paul jumped to the side.

Franklin said that was the last he saw of his brother. The boy returned home and reported the incident to his father, William. About three hours later, the father found Paul in a gully beneath the trestle. Police Chief Louis Brown of Valley Park said there were no marks on the body to indicate it had been struck by a train. A verdict of accident was returned by a coroner's jury today at Clayton.

RUSSIA DEMANDS VOICE IN ANY TALKS OVER ANTARCTICA

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Russia has notified the United States that it wants a voice in any international discussions which might develop over the future of Antarctica.

A note to that effect was delivered to the State Department yesterday by Vladimir I. Bazykin, Russian charge d'affaires. Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin is at present in Moscow.

Officials assumed that other western nations which had shown interest in the frozen south polar continent were told the same thing. Why the subject was brought up at this time puzzled State Department officials.

There has been little international concern over Antarctica since the United State tried in vain two years ago to settle clashing territorial claims of Britain, Argentina and Chile through some sort of international control. Russia was left out of those talks.

WOMAN LEADER OF CHURCH HELD IN WELFARE FRAUD

Mrs. Lillian Ross, operator of the Mother Ross Foundation, a church at 4466 Delmar boulevard, was arrested yesterday and booked suspected of fraud in obtaining state aid to dependent children.

Police reported she had obtained $2057 from the State Welfare Office since November 1948 on her claim her husband's whereabouts was unknown and five minor children were dependent upon her. Her husband, John, has been living with her and the children at 2529A North Market street during that period, police reported. Moreover, they said that he earned $3024 working in a cleaning establishment last year.

Ross told police he knew his wife had been obtaining state aid and reported his willingness to make restitution. But Mrs. Ross denied the payments had been obtained illegally and maintained she was unaware of her husband's whereabouts.

3 SEX OFFENSE CHARGES AGAINST EX-CONVICT DROPPED

Three sex offense charges against George W. Youngman, an ex-convict, were nol-prossed yesterday by Assistant Circuit Attorney John J. Kelly in the court of Circuit Judge William K. Koerner.

Kelly said the complaining witnesses had left the city since the alleged offenses occurred last December and January. One offense was reported to have occurred in the basement of the Gospel Gleaners' Church, 2631 South Broadway, where Youngman's wife, Margaret, is pastor.

Phil J. Finazzo, of the 2800 block of Chouteau avenue, was acquitted of a charge of child molestation in a directed verdict of Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius. A 10-year-old girl testified against Finazzo and two other girls corroborated her statement. Defense counsel filed a demurrer asking for the directed verdict, on grounds that the state failed to show felonious intent.

NEGOTIATIONS RESUMED IN BAKERS' STRIKE

Union Reports Progress in Talks, Management Denies It — Bread Shortage Felt.

Negotiations were resumed today in an effort to settle the four-day bakers' strike, which has drastically reduced the supply of bread for homes and restaurants.

The AFL union representing 1400 bakers employed in wholesale bakeries here and the St. Louis Bakers' Council, representing management, met at the Forest Park Hotel after they had been brought together yesterday by a committee of the Food Council of Greater St. Louis, which is seeking to end the strike.

Demands Modified.

Nicholas M. Blassie, chairman of the Food Council's committee, said the union, Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Local 4 and its auxiliary, modified some of its demands relating to longer vacations and improved security provisions. Blassie felt progress was made yesterday toward an agreement.

However, Albert Lantz, management spokesman, said there had been no progress. He declared the union modified some demands but increased others.

Management has offered a 5-cent-an-hour increase. Originally the union had sought a 15-cent-an-hour increase but has since scaled its demand to 12½ cents.

In the meantime retail bakery shops, which make their own bread, have been swamped with customers. Limits have been placed on the number of loaves that may be bought.

Groceries Out of Bread.

Almost all groceries are out of bread. Harry Schenberg, who has four supermarkets, said he is selling 3000 loaves a day instead of the usual 1500. He gets his bread under a private contract with a bakery.

Schenberg pointed out there has been a big jump in sales of canned biscuits and crackers. Purchases of flour and yeast also have increased, indicating some housewives are baking their own bread.

Restaurants also are feeling the pinch. They are using biscuits, muffins and various quick-baking mixes as substitutes for bread.

Hospitals that are unable to get an adequate supply from retail bakeries can obtain necessary amounts of bread through an arrangement with Barnes Hospital, which is acting as a depot for loaves shipped in by an East Side bakery.

MINE FROM BLAST IN JERSEY FOUND IN TRAIN'S COAL

RED BANK, N.J., June 10 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Railroad is trying to find out how an anti-personnel mine from the South Amboy (N.J.) blast area got into a coal tender on a crowded passenger train.

The mine, which Army officers said could have been set off by fire, heat or agitation, was found yesterday afternoon in the coal pile of a tender on a train carrying 350 passengers from north Jersey shore points to New York.

The six-car train had just left the station here when the mine was disscovered by Fireman Raymond C. Clayton, who was among those injured when four munitions barges exploded in South Amboy May 19. The blast killed 31 persons.

The train was backed into the station and passengers were removed.

The coal was loaded several hours earlier at South Amboy, a railroad spokesman said. All of the road's coal supplies in South Amboy had been sifted by Army personnel, he said. He explained a screen over the coal hopper on the locomotive would have kept the mine from entering the firebox.

WIDOW NOMINATED IN PLACE OF ILLINOIS CONGRESSMAN

WAUKEGAN, Ill., June 10 (UP)—The widow of Representative Ralph Church has been chosen to succeed her husband on the Republican ticket for Representative from the Thirteenth Illinois District.

The district G.O.P. organization last night gave the nomination to Mrs. Marguerite S. Church after the second ballot showed the contest no longer was in doubt.

Church died shortly before the April primary. There was not sufficient time to have new ballots printed before the primary and Church got the nomination. Under Illinois law, the nomination then was up to the district G.O.P. committee.

RUSSIAN TANK COMMANDER MEZHITSAN DIES IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, June 10 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Ivan Mezhitsan died here suddenly June 7, the Soviet press reported today.

A "daring and decisive" tank commander, Mezhitsan had been awarded the Order of Lenin and other high Soviet decorations. He had served in the Soviet army for 18 years and had been a member of the Communist party since 1941.

The Soviet press yesterday announced the death of 54-year-old Maj. Gen. Yakov Balakin, who served throughout World War II. He died after a lengthy illness.

SHELTON IN-LAW FEARS OWN DEATH AS ROY IS BURIED

A brother-in-law of the vanishing Sheltons, Guy Pennington of Fairfield, Ill., predicted a similar fate for himself today as the Shelton family buried Roy Shelton, who was killed Wednesday, in Maple Hill Cemetery next to his brother, Carl, leader of the notorious Shelton gang.

Pennington, who married Lulu Shelton, one of the two Shelton sisters, told Deputy Sheriff Elmer (Red) Brown of Wayne county that he thought "the Pond Creek farmers would get him." He added that "it looks like they are going to wipe out all of us."

The Penningtons had been reported on the outs with the Shelton clan and last year they moved from the county following the serious wounding of Earl (Big Earl) Shelton in the Farmers Club, a Shelton gambling establishment on the town square. Pennington told authorities today, however, that the "families were getting along fine."

Pennington made his statement after he was arrested on a warrant issued by State's Attorney Gerald Mayberry yesterday charging him with operating a gambling establishment at his new Twin Pines Club, six miles north of Fairfield. The complaint was based on statements of Charles Lodge, a carpenter, and W. E. Shehorn, a mechanic, that they were not allowed to leave the club after winning $150.

The pair said Pennington told them; "You aren't going to go home yet. You are going to stay here and play cards or you will get a whipping every time I see you." Lodge and Shehorn said they managed to duck out later, still ahead of the game.

A heavy detail of Illinois state highway patrolmen gathered in Fairfield today to be on hand to guard against any more attacks on the Shelton family. State's Attorney Mayberry asked for their aid in investigating the killing of Roy, third Shelton brother to be killed in less than three years.

The attack on Roy was the seventh attack on the Sheltons in the same period of time. All the killings or attempted killings occurred in Wayne county except the ambush slaying of Bernie Shelton at Peoria on July 26, 1948. "Big Earl" Shelton was shot twice, his nephew, Earl (Little Earl) Shelton was shot eight times on one occasion and escaped harm on two other occasions although a companion, Dellos Wylie, was seriously wounded on the last skirmish last Monday.

PHONE TIP LEADS TO ARREST OF THREE ENTERING CAFE

Three young men were arrested and booked suspected of burglary early today when police, acting on a tip from an unidentified nurse at City Hospital, surprised them at a restaurant owned by William Zentner at 1601 Lafayette avenue, south of the nurse's home.

The nurse telephoned police from the home and reported she could hear someone breaking into the restaurant. Twelve officers in four squad cars and a cruising patrol surrounded the restaurant, then closed in.

Those arrested identified themselves as Charles W. Green, who gave an address in the 1300 block of Mississippi avenue; Lloyd G. Lawson, who said he lived in the 1400 block of Chouteau avenue, and Lawrence L. Beekman, who said he had no permanent home.

Green was arrested as he came out a rear window of the restaurant, Lawson was discovered hiding beneath an automobile parked in the rear of the establishment and Beekman, described by police as the "lookout" was apprehended loitering around the corner on Grattan street.

SETTLEMENT IN SUIT TO OUST NEGRO LODGE HEAD ANNOUNCED

Trial of a suit to enjoin Dr. George B. Key from continuing to serve as grand master of the Negro Masonic Grand Lodge of Missouri was continued yesterday until Sept. 1 after attorneys for Dr. Key and the eight plaintiff members announced in court an "amicable settlement" had been reached.

The trial was in its eighth day, before Circuit Judge Waldo C. Mayfield. The attorneys announced that the settlement will be filed with the court when the case is called Sept. 1. They declined to make the terms public but said the settlement would dispose also of two other suits pending against Dr. Key.

In addition to the ouster of Dr. Key, the plaintiffs had sought to restrain him from collecting a $35-per-member assessment to defray the cost of acquiring a building at 4525 Olive street. The additional suits seek damages totaling $168,000, one alleging he coerced 49 Negro Masonic groups to move to the Olive street building, the other alleging he wrongfully suspended a member from a subordinate lodge.

Russian Deserter in Reich Tells Of Guerrilla Action in Caucasus

Survivors of Peoples Deported to Siberia Are Fighting Reds in Mountains, British Are Told.

BERLIN, June 10 (AP)—A Russian army deserter has told the British that a guerrilla war is being fought against Russian rule in the Caucasus mountains.

He is 24-year-old Sgt. Mikhain Amurkmanovich Kuratsyev, who fled from the Russian occupation forces in East Germany two weeks ago after returning from home leave in Russia. He has been granted refuge in the British zone.

Kuratsyev identified the mountain rebels as survivors of the Chechen and Ingushi peoples who had been deported from their southern mountain homeland to Siberia in 1944.

A main reason for Kuratsyev's desertion, the British reported, was "the crimes and violence against the minority peoples in his country by the Soviet regime." His home is only five miles from the border of the former Chechen-Ingush autonomous republic, whose Moslem inhabitants were deported.

"Some managed to avoid deportation and go into hiding," Kuratsyev was quoted as saying. "During my recent short leave in the Caucasus, I heard they were at present engaged in guerrilla warfare in the mountains."

Kuratsyev said Russian authorities accused the Chechen and Ingushi people of collaborating with the Germans but that he knew of no such co-operation—though they evaded Russian conscription.

"They are an independent mountain people, proud of their own way of life and of their religion, adverse to any central authority — Czarist or Soviet — and they had long been a thorn in the side of the Soviet regime," Kuratsyev was quoted as saying.

Kuratsyev estimated the average Russian worker's wage in the Caucasus at 300 to 350 rubles ($75 to $87.50) a month, before deductions for taxes and social insurance. A pair of good shoes, he said, cost 300 rubles and a suit about 1200 rubles ($300).

Kuratsyev is the son of a peasant whose farm was collectivized in 1938, he said. He has been with the Russian occupation forces in Germany since 1945.

A British press officer described Kuratsyev as "a man of high intelligence and apparently a real democrat." He said the sergeant hopes to emigrate to England.

PARIS LABELS TO BE HAD SOON AT $30 A GOWN

PARIS, June 10 (AP) — The high fashions of Paris, "big name" labels and all, are going on the assembly line.

Five of the top fashion houses, where royal ladies and millionaires' wives rub shoulders to pay four-figure sums for gowns, have struck a deal to put their frocks into mass production. The result will be dresses with famous labels on the shoulders of shopgirls and waitresses for about $30 a copy.

The five big names of the fashion world who are going into the mass production are Jean Desses, Jacques Fath, and designers Paquin, Robert Piguet and Carven.

Under the plan, each designer will contribute seven models, including two suits, two sport coats, two simple dresses and a raincoat or topcoat.

The 35 models then will be adapted to mass production by a factory near Paris.

LIE REJECTS POLISH PLEA TO ASK CHINA REDS TO PARLEY

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., June 10 (UP)—United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie announced yesterday that he had rejected a Polish request that he invite Chinese Communists to a U.N. technical-aid conference opening here Monday.

Poland said it could not take part in the conference on aid to backward areas unless the Mao Tse-tung government was invited. It was apparent that, in view of Lie's reply, the Russian bloc would walk out, or perhaps not even appear.

Lie, who has been waging an energetic campaign to get the Chinese Communists admitted to the U.N., told the Polish delegation that he was powerless to dictate who should be invited to the meeting. He said that a General Assembly resolution provided that invitations go to U.N. members and members of U.N. specialized agencies participating in the aid program, and that the Nationalists held legal title to China's seat in the groups concerned.

REMINGTON TO QUIT U.S. JOB, TRY TO PROVE HE WASN'T RED

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—William W. Remington will quit his $10,000-a-year Department of Commerce job Monday so he can devote his time to trying to prove that "I have never been a member of the Communist party."

The 32-year-old wartime naval intelligence lieutenant is to appear in United States District Court in New York Tuesday to answer an indictment charging he lied when he said he had never been a Communist. It is expected to be months before his trial actually starts.

The department economist notified Secretary of Commerce Sawyer by letter yesterday he had reconsidered an earlier refusal to resign at Sawyer's request, and would quit "at the close of business Monday."

Similar proceedings have been started against another $10,000-a-year official of the department's Office of International Trade, Michael E. Lee.

REJECTED BY FRATERNITY, BOY, 15, HANGS HIMSELF

LARCHMONT, N.Y., June 10 (UP)—The 15-year-old son of a New York stock broker hanged himself last night in despondency over being rejected by a high school fraternity, a medical examiner reported.

Dr. David M. Spain said Bruce MacWhinney strangled himself with a rope attached to a bedpost apparently after listening to music and voices from a party given by the fraternity in a house across the street.

TRUMAN SEEKS RULE OF DECENCY, HE TELLS COMPTON

Brotherhood Is Solution to World Problems, Message to Conferees in Europe Says.

PARIS, June 10 (AP)—President Truman has called for "a world rule of decency and brotherhood" in a message to a conference of intellectual and business leaders from 11 western nations.

The four-day conference, which has no governmental connections, is a direct outgrowth of the United States National Conference of Christians and Jews. Chairman of the parley is Arthur S. Compton, chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis.

Truman's message said in part:

"For many years I have expressed my belief that one fundamental solution exists for mankind. That is the creation of a world rule of decency and brotherhood.

"Today, despite our heavy problems, and perhaps because of them, we have an unparalleled opportunity to bring about this age-old aspiration.

"It is certain, however, that a world rule of decency and brotherhood will not evolve of its own accord. A basic condition on which it depends is the dispelling of ignorance and the promotion of understanding among peoples."

John S. Knight, newspaper publisher, in a speech assailed "the well-meaning but arbitrary method of those who would administer tolerance by compulsion."

"We do not build better understanding and good will between racial, religious and origin groups," he said, "by enactment of statutes which would make discrimination in employment punishable by fines."

Knight, who publishes the Chicago Daily News, Akron Beacon Journal, Detroit Free Press and Miami Herald, also assailed a French proposal to license journalists.

Ralph Nicholson, former publisher of the New Orleans Item and now public affairs director for the United States high commissioner in Germany, called on the western press and radio to devote itself to telling the truth "everywhere and to everybody."

Roscoe Drummond, Washington Bureau chief for the Christian Science Monitor, now on leave as European information director for the Marshall plan, criticized Russia's "peace campaign," as a propaganda drive to gain the Communists a foothold throughout the world.

EX-WAC HELD IN KILLING OF UNWANTED GUEST

Woman Said to Have Admitted Shooting Man Who Refused to Leave, Defied Her.

GEORGETOWN, Del., June 10 (AP)—A 22-year-old man was shot to death with a .22-caliber pistol today and a former WAC was arrested for questioning in the killing.

State police indentified the victim as Granville G. Brittingham, member of a prominent family in this town on the southern tip of Delaware.

Police Capt. Clarence Lynch said the former WAC, Mrs. Thelma D. Powell, 31-year-old mother of two girls, admitted the shooting in an oral statement. No charges were placed immidately.

Lynch said state police found Brittingham's body at the cottage. They said that the shot had awakened Mrs. Powell's daughters by a former marriage, Dorothy Reno, 14 years old, and Irene Reno, 11.

The children told Lynch they were awakened early today by the entry of their mother and Brittingham. Mrs. Powell told Brittingham to go home, because it was late. He refused.

Mrs. Powell said: "If you don't, I'll shoot you."

Brittingham said: "Go ahead. I dare you, but make sure it's between the eyes."

The mother said: "I'll shoot you, not between the eyes, but in the arm or leg."

"Go ahead," Brittingham said again, "I dare you." The shot followed.

Lynch said medical examination showed a slug hit Brittingham below the shoulder, struck the heart and glanced downward to lodge in the pelvis.

Mrs. Powell said, Lynch related, that Brittingham was a friend of her estranged husband, George T. Powell.

The Powells were married in Otlantic City, N.J., in 1946 after she was discharged from the WAC. Her first husband, Charles L. Reno, died at Van Wert, O., during the war.

VETERANS OF 35TH YARN ABOUT TWO WARS, IN BUSINESS SESSION HERE

Meet Truman and Defense Secretary Johnson — Division Pays Tribute to Dead at Annual Reunion.

Thirty-fifth Division veterans relived experiences of two world wars today as they held the principal business session of their three-day gathering, at Hotel Jefferson. Later they held memorial services for former comrades and marched again in columns of four in the big reunion parade.

President Harry S. Truman, the division's most-famed veteran, entered the association's business meeting in the Gold Room of Hotel Jefferson at 9:35 a.m., today, five minutes after John B. Cobb of Independence, Mo., called the session to order.

Accompanying the President as he entered the meeting room were Defense Secretary Louis A. Johnson and Henri Bonnet, French ambassador to the United States.

They took seats on the platform. Among others who entered with the President were Mayor Joseph M. Darst, Gov. Forrest Smith, nited States Senator Forrest C. Donnell, Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas, Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann and Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, military aide to the President.

Women Among Audience.

About 400 persons, including many women, were in the room as the program began. More than 1000 veterans of the Division have registered so far.

Cobb, head of the division association, introduced President Truman in this fashion: "You will hear him this afternoon as President of the United States but this morning as a soldier and famous artilleryman of Battery D."

Then the President told of his pleasure in attending the reunion, recalling that since he became the nation's chief executive he has attended four of the division's reunions—in Omaha, Kansas City, Little Rock "and now here in Missouri's metropolis."

Each time the reunions have been "most enjoyable for me," the President continued. He said he had discussed with Bonnet, the French ambassador, customs of France and learned that division and Army reunions, banquets and shows are popular there, as they are in this country.

"I am here to discuss some things this afternoon," Truman said. "I am here also to see that those old stiffs mentioned by Gov. Smith get the proper amount of exercise."

Gov. Smith, in his remarks, had said: "You old stiffs of the World War I Thirty-fifth Division can well be proud fathers of the new Thirty-fifth, whose representatives, the 138th Infantry of St. Louis and the division band from Springfield will appear in today's parade."

Chides "Fat Colonels."

President Truman, after his remark about "those old stiffs," continued: "Any fat colonel or general who thinks he's gonna ride in this parade is just as mistaken as he can be—not when I'm present.

"Last year, in Little Rock, the Secretary of Defense and the Governor of Arkansas had to walk with me and today I'm going to see that the Secretary of Defense and the Governor of Missouri walk just as I do."

As for Mayor Darst, the President added, "he was in the infantry in World War I and ought to have no trouble walking."

He told of the enjoyable time he had at breakfast with his old mates of Battery D this morning, remarking that "not a single one looked as if he hadn't slept all night—an indication that Anno Domini is catching up with us. That wouldn't have happened 10 years ago."

The President said he was pleased to find veterans of the division living in the present, not the past.

"It is men like these, who also have experience, who will solve our country's problems," he asserted.

"Have Some Work to Do."

He urged his listeners to "pay particular attention to what I have to say this afternoon," then excused himself from the meeting with the explanation that "I have some work to do for the Government of the United States, for which I work."

Peter S. Miravalle of St. Louis, president of the division reunion corporation, who had charge of plans for this year's get-together, was unanimously elected president of the association for the coming year at this morning's meeting.

Vice presidents named were Warren L. Osgood, Little Rock, Ark.; George T. O'Connell, Emporia, Kan.; Warren C. Wood, Gering, Nebr., and William E. Kraemer, St. Louis.

The association voted to hold its 1951 reunion in Topeka, Kan.

The program opened with singing of the National Anthem, led by Miss Maria Marceno. Then the Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of St. Louis University, delivered the invocation.

First speaker was Mayor Darst, who extended the city's greetings and told of staunch friendships that developed from his World War I experiences in the 139th Infantry.

"I humbly believe we can take real pride in the record of the men of the Thirty-fifth Division, both in uniform and in civilian life," Mayor Darst said. "The tradition is being carried on by the young men, who fought so gallantly under the division banner in World War II."

Gov. Smith told the veterans that the Thirty-fifth Division "is not resting on its hard-earned and deserved laurels."

"Since World War II a new and greater National Guard is being organized throughout the nation. As part of this National Guard a new Thirty-fifth Division has been formed. Two-thirds of the troops are from Missouri, one-third from Kansas. This afternoon you will view two units of the new division, St. Louis's own 138th Infantry Regiment and the division band from Springfield. I know that when you see these two outstanding groups the glint that only a proud father shows toward a fine son will be in your eyes.

"It is fitting and proper that a division which has acquitted itself with honor and glory in the past should also be making a great contribution in keeping our country strong in time of peace. I am proud to report that Missouri is co-operating fully with the other states and our President, here today, in maintaining the defenses of our nation.

"The citizen-soldier of the National Guard has been the backbone of defense in this country from earliest times. Thus, we have a practical program in which the state works with the nation in the organization and training of these troops. This is in the finest tradition of America. The members of the Thirty-fifth Division Association have an outstanding record of service as citizen-soldiers. Through your service in two wars you have proved a proud right of distinction in this field."

Many stories about "Capt. Harry" are told when veterans of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery, get together. This one was related today by John T. Naulty, now a tire dealer in Kansas City, as members of Truman's World War I outfit talked over old times:

"We were in a plum orchard in the Argonne, just outside of shot-up Varennes. Things were plenty hot, and German machine-gun nests were giving the infantry a fit. Capt. Harry decided to go up front and see what could be done.

"He told the battery commander's detail, 'You four men follow me.' He didn't say to go on up and he'd be there later. He said, 'Follow me.' They carried the telephone wire on a reel, and moved up about 300 yards, I guess. From there he was able to spot the machine-gun nests in the ruins of the town.

"After a while he telephoned back and asked how many rounds we had.

" 'Ninety-six,' we told him.

"'Fire 96 rounds as fast as you can,' he ordered.

"When we asked for firing data, he said, 'Plot 014, drum zero.' In the language of French 75s, that's right between the eyes—direct fire.

Silenced a Battery.

"We let 'em have it. He stayed down there and exposed himself from 10 in the morning until it was dark directing fire. We broke up 18 machine-gun nests and silenced a battery in the Hindenburg Line.

"When Capt. Harry finally came back, he was splattered with mud from shells landing near him, and looked plenty haggard. 'We've done a lot of execution today,' he said.

"After all these years I still remember the date. It was Sept. 26, 1918. That sold Capt. Harry to us, if he needed any selling. He showed he would never send a man anywhere he wouldn't go himself. That's why we would go anywhere for him."

The first day and night of the reunion was notable for the orderly conduct of the veterans. There was an almost complete absence of "high jinks" as the veterans gathered in hotel rooms and lobbies to renew old friendships and talk over old times. Unit registers showed attendance from distant points, including New York, New Jersey, South Carolina, Wisconsin, California and Montana.

Floyd T. Ricketts, a former member of famous Battery D, who traveled from Los Angeles for the reunion, is remembered as organizer of an unofficial parade of members of the battery in long underwear at a rest camp in France. Commanders of adjacent units raised an outcry, and "Capt. Harry" confined his outfit to quarters, but not for long, Battery D veterans related.

Unit dinners and dances are scheduled at several hotels tonight and there will be a "jamboree" at 138th Infantry Armory, Spring avenue and Market street. The reunion will adjourn at noon tomorrow, following a meeting of the division association executive committee.

Truman Draws Cheers on Street, Small Crowd at Ball; Carriage Ride Highlights Party at Grant's Farm

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

By HOWARD DERRICKSON
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

President Truman and a full bill of entertainment at $10 a seat failed to fill half of Kiel Auditorium Convention Hall last night, but a glimpse of the President and his infectious smile drew cheering crowds yesterday at every gathering point he flashed past in his closely-guarded movements here.

With intent gaze and waving panama hat, Harry Truman plainly enjoyed the spectators as much as they did him. Throngs steadily increased in density as his 20-vehicle procession traveled from Robertson, where his special train brought him from Columbia, Mo., to a reception at Grant's Farm, the August A. Busch Jr. estate on Gravois road, and later to Hotel Jefferson and the auditorium. Truman is in St. Louis to attend the reunion of his World War I outfit, the Thirty-fifth Division, which arranged the auditorium "ball and gala."

Auto Top Lowered.

"You know, when I was a boy," he told other riders in his machine "I never did get to see a real, live President." Accordingly, the entourage stopped just before reaching Kirkwood and the top of Truman's chartreuse convertible was lowered to give children and others a better view of their President.

Two groups of tightly-packed admirers greeted Truman at Grant's Farm. The louder in cheers and applause was the uninvited one clustered just outside the iron gates.

Truman posed for photographers as he was met by his host on the steps of the Big House. Inside, most of the 1480 invited guests already had arrived. They included St. Louis leaders in religion, politics, industry and labor —an inter-racial assemblage.

Hostesses said the party was the most lavish of many sumptuous affairs held there. Peter S. Miravalle, reunion committee chairman of the Thirty-fifth Division, attributed empty seats at the auditorium to the fact many of Busch's guests had bought blocks of tickets but stayed at the estate after the President left.

Goes for Carriage Ride.

First move of Truman's enthusiastic host was to sweep the President along to the Bauernhof, or carriage house, for a ride. There Truman, a former farmer who turned soldier, asked especially to see Grant's Cabin, the home of a soldier turned farmer, and incidentally one of his predecessors in the White House.

On invitation, the President eagerly mounted an imported English coach, the Vigilant, for a ride behind four handsome, spirited black horses.

But host and guest had proceeded without Secret Service approval, and presidential secretaries had not kept pace as the pair left the Big House. Agents, obviously perplexed, seemed to appear from nowhere. They swarmed about the coach. There was a momentary delay punctuated by bewildered expostulations from Busch. Then the rough ride through the deer park began, with photographers, reporters and ever-present Secret Service men in pursuit afoot.

After the ride was over, Busch explained he had been obliged to make a circuit of the park stripped of his driving apron. "My clothing is soiled," he said, "because the Secret Service made me take off my apron — they apparently suspected I had a weapon hidden there!"

Truman, his cheeks flushed, joined other guests for hors d'oeuvres. About 200 attendants scurried about to provide food and drink. Two orchestras played at different places on the grounds.

Happy About Ride.

"It's been ages since I rode behind a team," the President said, above the music. "That was the best relaxation I've had in a long time."

Also on the coach for the ride were Eberhard Anheuser, W. Stuart Symington and so many Secret Service men that the vehicle pitched and rolled on slopes like a ship in heavy weather. Truman was dropped off, intentionally, and waved to Mrs. Busch, the host's mother, who has been ill, but the pair did not speak. Mrs. Busch smiled appreciatively and contented herself with waving back.

With the younger generation of Busches the President became better acquainted. He was surrounded by Busch's daughters, Mrs. Robert Ringen Hermann and Miss Elizabeth Busch, and by two grandnephews, 12-year-old Bert Condie and 10-year-old Billy Hadley, with whom he shook hands and chatted.

Truman was greeted intimately and affectionately by old friends from his Kansas City days, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCarty, now of 3601 Lawn avenue. "How are you, Cap?" asked McCarty, a war buddy of the President.

'Never Felt Better.'

"Never felt better in my life," Truman said.

"Why didn't you bring Margaret and Mom?"

"Margaret's busy taking singing lessons," the President replied. "Mom's taking care of her mother, who hasn't been well."

Out-of-town friends whom Truman assured of his good health included Mr. and Mrs. Warren Osgood of Little Rock, Ark. Osgood also served with the President in World War I.

Reporters were permitted to listen in freely on such remarks. Secret Service men on occasion, however, exercised vigorous censorship. They shut off approach to the President when Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of engineers, got into conversation with him about "that Arkansas project."

Mostly, Truman chatted with friends about the wonders he had seen on his ride—Texas longhorns, buffalo and sheep that worried the Secret Service. "But we didn't see the fox," Busch interposed, in disappointment.

The riders and almost all other guests did see an animal that provoked a good deal of comment. This was a remarkably friendly donkey that kept approaching groups of Democratic politicians, looking nearly as ubiquitous and twice as much at home as the Secret Service men.

Schedule Stretched.

When leave-taking came, the President's visit at the estate had lasted 58 minutes instead of the scheduled half hour. "I enjoyed every minute of it," he told his host.

Truman re-entered his automobile and talked with James P. Finnegan, Collector of Internal Revenue in St. Louis, as others in the presidential party took their places in the caravan of 18 automobiles and two busses. The trip to the Jefferson was speeded up to compensate for lost time.

The President was serenaded with the "Missouri Waltz" at Jefferson and Gravois avenues. At that point a group of singers was being accompanied by a bass viol player who stood in the street.

Truman ate dinner in his hotel suite with his secretaries, Charles G. Ross and Mathew J. Connelly. The President ordered squab, asparagus with hollandaise sauce and a tossed salad. He decided to forego dessert, but sent down later for a bottle of buttermilk.

He asked Nick Carter, maitre d'hotel, to bring him the afternoon newspapers and rewarded him with a $1 tip. "Better look at that dollar bill," Truman called after Carter. Carter did. The bill bore Truman's autograph.

For the evening's entertainment, the President, natty as ever, wore a summer formal — dark trousers and white double-breasted jacket over a pleated white shirt with black bow tie. His sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman of Grandview, Mo., whom he escorted to the ball, changed from a navy blue suit with matching hat, which she had worn at the Busch estate, to a rose-colored full-length gown.

The pair was whisked from the hotel to automobile by Secret Service men. Crowds waiting in incipient rain were forced to stand across the street. A cheer went up as the President, waving and smiling, paused for a matter of seconds only.

In Presidential Party.

At the auditorium, Miss Truman was flanked by her brother and Miravalle. To Truman's right and in the direction of the stage were, in order, Gov. Forrest Smith, Mayor Joseph M. Darst and Congressman John B. Sullivan of St. Louis.

The hall, which seats nearly 11,000, seemed a third full. Miravalle said "at least 2500, possibly 3000" tickets had been sold. "It was a photo finish," he said, "but we are going to come out in the black."

During some songs and dance routines, the President and Governor were in earnest, animated conversation. Truman would listen, his face turned toward the floor while the Governor would speak rapidly, looking off at the ceiling or toward the rear of the hall. Then the President would reply more briefly, keeping his eyes on Smith.

Highpoints in Truman's attention came when Mrs. Estle Rucker of St. Louis, mother-in-law of Vice President Alben W. Barkley, provided piano accompaniment for a baritone who sang the "Missouri Waltz," and when a night club entertainer touched on rising taxes.

Tribute in Narrative.

His interest reached its peak during a narration by Frank Eschen, news and special events director of Post-Dispatch radio station KSD, against a choral background supplied by singers from Moolah Temple and the Missouri Athletic Club. Songs and script sketched the history of the Thirty-fifth Division.

A stirring incident about "Fighting Capt. Harry Truman" in the Vosges mountains drew prolonged applause.

"That was very touching," Truman said. "I am delighted with the whole show. That performance brought back memories of days long gone by.

"The men of the Thirty-fifth made history. They did their part. And I intend to get on with the big job by helping to bring about world peace."

Later in comment on the show, he remarked to a war buddy, "The artillery rides again!"

In the afternoon ride from Robertson to Grant's Farm, Truman commented on the number of youngsters being held high by adults for the spectacle. He remarked women and children seemed more excited than most men. One man, however, left a barber's chair in Kirkwood to watch the cavalcade, the white cover he was wearing flapping in the wind.

After the Kirkwood crowds were past, the Secret Service man at the wheel of Truman's machine made another halt, thinking the top on the automobile should go up again. He was overruled by presidential veto. The top stayed down all the way.

That was in spite of the fact Truman had been drenched by rain earlier in the day as he gave the University of Missouri commencement address. His reference to the ordeal by water was a joking one.

"When I get back to Washington," he said to Gov. Smith, "I'll have to reorganize that Weather Bureau."

W.C.T.U. CALLS ON TRUMAN TO 'ABSTAIN FROM DRINKING'

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP) — The Women's Christian Temperance Union for the District of Columbia adopted a motion yesterday urging President Truman to "abstain from drinking." The motion called on the President to set an example for the nation in temperance.

Truman can take the stuff or leave it alone. He seldom indulges in more than two drinks at a gathering, and he doesn't smoke.

No details were contained in the motion, but W.C.T.U. officers said it was inspired by one adopted by the World W.C.T.U. in England asking King George VI not to drink.

HITCHHIKERS HELD IN TEXAS REPORTED TO ADMIT BEATING

Two St. Louis brothers, John Sherman Lester and George Ray Lester, admitted yesterday that they beat and robbed a Del Rio (Tex.) druggist who picked them up as hitchhikers, El Paso authorities announced today.

Police said the brothers, who lived in the 2000 block of Lafayette avenue here, admitted beating C. R. Weese last Friday. His automobile was found abandoned Wednesday a mile east of Fort Stockton, Tex. John, 22 years old, and George, 20, were picked up early yesterday for questioning.

EX-JUDGE DOUGLAS IS TO PRESIDE AT HENNINGS RALLY

By CURTIS A. BETTS
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

President Truman's reiterated indorsement of State Senator Emery W. Allison for United States Senator yesterday was met with a strong strategic move by Allison's principal opponent, Thomas C. Hennings Jr. This was an announcement that former Supreme Judge James M. Douglas of St. Louis would preside at the Hennings rally in Kiel Auditorium June 19.

At Mayor Darst's reception to the President in his office in the City Hall, the President talked Allison politics to the members of the Democratic City Committee who were guests.

Although none of the committee members would quote the President, several said tha his attitude in informal talks to groups of them was that "they must work for Allison." Ward organizations in 26 or the 28 wards have indorsed Hennings.

At the conclusion of the reception, State Senator William E. Hillsman of St. Louis said that "in spite of all this I expect 26 St. Louis wards will be for Hennings."

Allison attended the reception, but Hennings, not having been invited, did not. Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan, a Hennings supporter, although invited, did not attend.

Putting Douglas in the front of the Hennings campaign is a subtle injection of the 1941 governorship steal attempt into the campaign. Allison as a State Senator was a participant in the attempt to "steal" the governorship from Forrest C. Donnell. Douglas, as Supreme Court judge, wrote the opinion, concurred in by the entire court, blocking the scheme.

Defeated Machine.

Douglas, too, is the only Democrat who ever defeated the Pendergast machine in Kansas City, which had a part in the 1941 fiasco, and which is now supporting Allison for the senatorial nomination.

Douglas, who had been appointed to the Missouri Supreme Court by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark to fill a vacancy, was a candidate in 1938 for election under the old political setup. The late Boss Tom Pendergast, seeking a foothold in the court, brought out Judge James V. Billings of Kennett against him. One of the bitterest primary campaigns in Missouri history followed.

The heaviest vote ever cast in a state primary resulted in a decisive defeat for Pendergast. Douglas won the nomination by a plurality of 119,498 in a total vote of 757,076. Douglas continued to serve on the court until a year ago when he resigned to return to practice in St. Louis.

Appeal for Allison.

Announcement of Douglas's participation in the Hennings campaign came at about the time the President was pointedly renewing public expression of his support of Allison in a rear platform appearance when his special train made a brief stop in Mexico, Mo. He introduced Allison to the crowd, prolonged a handshake with the candidate, and said: "I sincerely hope that you people will do your part to see that he comes to Congress." He introduced Allison as a Democrat who will represent Missouri "as it ought to be represented."

The old governorship steal effort, which was largely responsible for Donnell's election to the Senate in 1944, might have been forgotten as an issue of the far past had it not been that Donnell undoubtedly will be nominated by the Republicans for another term in the Senate, and that the contest will be between him and either Hennings or Allison.

Although Hennings has been campaigning the state for more than two months, as has Allison, the rally June 19 will be his first big meeting. The others have been small local gatherings. It will be under the auspices of the 26 Democratic ward organizations in St. Louis which are pledged to Hennings and a group of AFL unions.

JEFFERSON CITY POPULATION GROWS ONLY 722 IN DECADE

JESFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 10 (AP)—A preliminary census report for Missouri's capital city shows a total population of 24,990, up only 722 from the 1940 figure.

The preliminary report for Cole county showed a total of 35,163, just 251 higher than 10 years ago.

The figures include better than 3000 inmates at Missouri Penitentiary here but do not include many state employes, each of whom retains official residence in his or her home county.

Truman Marches in Parade Preceding Riverfront Talk

Many Snap Pictures.

Four persons found a good observation point atop a hamburger stand on the south side of Olive just west of Twelfth.

East of Twelfth the crowd was thicker. Many had cameras, and one man perched on a second-floor ledge of the old Federal building at Ninth and Oilve to take pictures.

From the reviewing stand President Truman and the other dignitaries had an excellent view of the riverfront area. The stand faced east. The Chief Executive took a seat and chatted with Gov. Smith during lulls in the parade.

No U.S. Military Units.

There were no Army, Navy, Marine, Coast Guard or Air Force detachments in the parade, their scheduled participation having been canceled by an economy order from the Defense Secretary. But National Guard units, veterans' groups and school, fraternal and patriotic organizations provided ample color.

A 21-gun salute greeted President Truman when he arrived at the site of the projected memorial. It was fired by Battery A of the 128th Field Artillery. The St. Louis artillerymen manned a battery of 105-millimeter howitzers. The guns, loaded with blank ammunition, pointed toward the river.

Inspects Old Courthouse.

Before moving on to the riverfront the President went inside the Old Courthouse to inspect a model of projected memorial.

Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter delivered the invocation at the dedicatory exercises. Mayor Darst introduced the distinguished guests, including French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, Secretary Johnson, Air Force Secretary Thomas K. Finletter, Maj. Gen. Lewis A Pick, chief of the Army Engineers; Stuart Symington, chairman of the National Security Resources Board; United States Senator Forreset C. Donnell of Missouri, Gov. Smith, Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas and Gov. Sidney S. McMath of Arkansas.

The President's address at 3 p.m. was telecast by Post-Dispatch Station KSD-TV, carried over the interconnected television network of the Columbia Broadcasting System and broadcast all over the world by the Voice of America. After the address the President planned to fly back to Washington.

Voices Plea for Peace.

Before the parade the President made a brief talk at a memorial service for the war dead of the Thirty-fifth Infantry. Addressing a crowd assembled on the Thirteenth street side of the Soldiers' Memorial, he voiced an earnest plea for peace, declaring that the United States "cannot afford any more wars, either economically or in manpower."

"It is indeed a privilege for me to be here today to help in these ceremonies to those who lost their lives in the defense of this great republic," he said.

"It is this nation's custom to honor those men who make the complete sacrifice. We did it after the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the War Between the States in 1861, the Spanish-American War, the First World War and the Second World War.

"Don't Want Another War."

"It is customary for our country to show gratefulness to those who have made the supreme sacrifice. It's the young men of the nation that we do not want to sacrifice in another world war.

"We do not want another world war. We cannot afford any more wars, either economically or in manpower.

"We must have these young men willing and able to make that sacrifice, but we who are in control of the Government of the United States must expend every bit of our energy to see that that sacrifice is not made.

'Moral Forces Will Triumph.'

"That is why we work with the United Nations. That is why we work with nations that believe as we do. Eventually the moral forces of the world will triumph over the unmoral forces of the world.

"I hope we will continue to pay tribute to those who have made the supreme sacrifice. And I hope we'll never again have to have other young men who will have to make that supreme sacrifice."

Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, the President's military aide, placed a wreath at the World War I cenotaph and Brig Gen. Louis H. Renfrow, assistant to the Secretary of Defense, laid a wreath in the World War II Court of Honor before Mayor Joseph M. Darst introduced the President on the speakers' stand.

A volley by a firing squad and taps by a bugler brought the memorial service to an end, after which flags that had flown at half staff over the World War I and World War II memorials were raised to full staff.

Before the memorial service, President Truman met Democratic politicians at a reception in the Mayor's office at City Hall. The 130 guests included Emery W. Allison, the President's hand-picked candidate for the Missouri Democratic Senatorial nomination; Gov. Forrest Smith, Congressmen John B. Sullivan, Raymond Karst, Franke Karsten and Mel Price; members of the Democratic City Central Committee, aldermen and other city officials.

The reception was followed by a buffet luncheon of turkey and ham in the Mayor's walnut-paneled board room, which was decorated with American Beauty roses and gladioli for the occasion.

ONLY BABIES, ILL, AGED GET MILK IN PITTSBURGH STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 10 (AP)—Hospitals, orphanages and homes for the aged are about the only places where milk is being delivered today in Pittsburgh and nearby communities.

A strike of 3250 milk and dairy workers has cut off other deliveries to some 2,500,000 western Pennsylvanians.

After the walkout at midnight Thursday the Allegheny County Medical Association made a special arrangement with the striking AFL Milk and Ice Cream Driver Salesmen and Dairy Employes, local 205, to provide milk on an emergency basis for babies' formulas, invalids and others.

Main issues in the strike are wages, commissions and vacation improvement, an industry spokesman said. Although exact contract demands have not been disclosed, the union says it wants a 40-hour week instead of the present 48-hour week with no reduction in pay. The drivers, now guaranteed $60 a week, also want to be reimbursed for commission cuts.

Farmers in the area were selling milk today to all comers for 50 cents a gallon.

STABBING CALLED 'FRATRICIDE

A verdict of "justifiable fratricide" was returned today by a coroner's jury at Clayton in the fatal stabbing of Estes A. James, Negro, by his brother, John, following a dispute outside a tavern at 909 North Elm avenue, near Webster Groves, early this morning.

Witnesses said that during the dispute Estes knocked John to the ground and beat and kicked him and that John drew a knife and slashed at his brother. Estes, 28 years old, lived at 901 Cornell avenue.

Chest Agencies, Too

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As usual our good librarian, Charles H. Compton speaks words of wisdom. The salaries at the library are too low, the lights are too dim, maintenance problems are not being met and despite the Song of Pippa Mr. Compton is not persuaded that "all's right with the world," especially the library.

We wish that Mr. Compton could have been more inclusive. What's true of the library is true of so many organizations—public and private. And hundreds of these agencies have no tax support and each year are in a haze as to the future. For instance it is impossible to make a contract with a Community Chest agency employe. It is just as impossible to guarantee a wage increase — any increase. The budgets sent in so hopefully in early spring are carefully studied and recommendations are made but after that it's in the lap of the gods—that is, the result of the campaign.

Many of the Community Chest agency buildings are in need of repairs. Not to repair now means much greater expense later. But in many cases the years glide past and the needs increase and the capital expense items wait.

It would be an interesting bit of research for the Governmental Research Bureau to determine how much money is needed to care for necessary repairs to buildings and equipment now. Then, with this fact determined, how about calling together our best business brains and finding a way out?

History in the Making

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It is indeed an honor to entertain both the President of the United States and the Prime Minister of Canada in the same week. This is possibly the first and last time for such a coincidence to happen in St. Louis.

No Captive Customers

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The transit radio poll revealed that the percentage of opposition increased as the age of the groups interviewed increased, and since the purchasing power of these groups far exceeds those of greatest approval, the commercial advertising value of transit radio based on these percentages is still highly questionable.

Public good will, the foundation of all successful business enterprise, cannot be created by deliberately antagonizing even an admitted 15 per cent of your prospective customers.

Despite all polls and legal opinions, cultured courtesy and a respectful regard for the rights of individual privacy always shall represent good advertising ethics.

Captive audience, temporarily.
Captive customers, never!

Realism With Pearls

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Elliot Grosberg is quite right. I live in comfort today because my ancestors, to escape religious persecution, came to America and wrested the land from the natives. Unblushingly I say that I am quite selfish enough to wish to escape the fate of the dispossessed Indians. Therefore I strongly advocate careful consideration of those whom we admit to our country.

If our desire to show good will overcomes our discretion, we may awake some fine morning to find ourselves no longer our own masters but rather the serfs of some foreign power. History records many such mistakes.

Those good but unrealistic souls who see a persecuted saint in every person of alien birth might do well to ponder upon the case of the refugee Fuchs who seemed a brilliant addition to the British scientific world but who so vilely betrayed his benefactors.

Yes, I well know that for one undesirable person there are very many good immigrants who are a fine addition to any country. However, careful screening is absolutely necessary in these perilous times, for the actions of one spy or traitor can overbalance the good to be derived from a hundred worthy and innocent people. "Neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you."

I advocate neither injustice nor persecution. But I do urge realism instead of sentimentality.

The Distaff Side

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Every impartial, patriotic American's heart thrilled at the "declaration of conscience" from the floor of the Senate by Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine.

In Jefferson City, Representative Jenny Spindler Walsh stood steadfast in a valiant fight against a powerful small-loan lobby last session, and helped prevent passage of vicious small-loan legislation by a margin of only two votes.

Can it be coming true that "the hand that rocks the cradle, rules the world"?

MERELY A MAN.

A Way of Life

President Truman at the University of Missouri turned out to be a better commencement speaker than most because he was more practical than most.

He told the graduates—and all the people of the United States—that they have the choice of living in a co-operative world or a warring world. He himself made the optimistic choice. Recognizing that this is a time of troubles, he yet refused to join those who "see only the dangers in the world—not the opportunities."

But he was not content with generalities. Perhaps the most important thing he said was that the United States cannot end its interest in other nations with the end of the Marshall plan in 1952.

At the war's end, he said, Russia was interested only in helping itself. Not so the United States. Americans chose to work with others, instead of trying "to become strong enough all by ourselves."

Could we have done it? Would it have been worth doing? Could this nation have persisted long as an island of solid prosperity in a sea of misery? Would not the very effort have turned the freedom-loving nations against us, and so undermined the selfish effort?

It is this decision which incorporates the essential rightness, the basic wisdom of American foreign policy. Some of the Russian thinkers still gamble on an economic collapse in the United States and in the other free countries. We, on the other hand, are working hard for stability abroad as well as at home. The Politburo hopes to advance its cause through the misery of others. Washington seeks to insure American well-being through contributions to the well-being of others. Given a free choice, who would prefer the Russian alternative?

No accountant can with certainty apportion the costs and the benefits of a policy of mutual aid. Certainly, the United States has made heavy contributions, especially to the nations of Western Europe. But what would postwar collapse and disorder in those countries have cost us?

The Marshall plan will run out in 1952. Arrangements to be made for the years after 1952 also will run out eventually. The policy of mutual support will become less and less one-sided. But if there is to be peace in the world, this policy should never run out.

It will always be the essential foundation of a world of hope and opportunity such as no totalitarian power can build by suppression, coercion and force.

President Truman pointed out the way of dignity and freedom. May those who heard him always follow it.

Mint Julep Without Poetry

Mint juleps can be made without poetry. We state this as an affirmative fact. The recipe of the late Col. Matt J. Winn, manager of Churchill Downs and the Kentucky Derby, now made public from Louisville, contains generous admixtures of poetry of the more romantic sort, all of it attractive but completely unnecessary.

According to the Winn recipe the mint leaves themselves should be gathered from the left bank of a Kentucky stream, which is poetry pure and simple, the poetry of place. It must be washed gently—here Col. Winn moved over to the poetry of motion. The sugar and the water must be put together—the poetry of propinquity. And finally the completed julep must be allowed to set 10 minutes before being tasted—the poetry of yearning.

We reject this romanticism in toto. The best way to make a mint julep is the easiest way. It is needless to force the ingredients together as Col. Winn would do. They require only to be thrown in the general direction of each other, and will blend as surely as water seeks its level, or boy meets girl, or all that goes up comes down. As for letting the julep stand 10 minutes, if it's a good julep it deserves to have been enjoyed 10 minutes earlier. And if the quaffer is a true lover of the mint julep, he will wait no longer than it takes to part his flowing mustaches and dip in.

Gladewater vs. Mosinee

When the town of Mosinee, up in Wisconsin, had its day of simulated Communist rule a month and a half ago, we suggested that the idea, however good it might be, could be improved on. We proposed that Mosinees all over the country, rather than attempting to find out what life under Red rule would be like, live and enjoy democracy to its fullest.

As the Mirror of Public Opinion on this page shows, Gladewater, Tex., undertook to do just this and before Mosinee went in for its sampling of Communism. The people of Gladewater have a belated salute coming. We hope that our printing of the extracts from the address by Mark Day at the National Education Association's citizenship conference will result in notice for it elsewhere.

Gladewater has the right idea. The one best way to improve on it is to make democracy the rule 365 days out of the year.

Gestapo or Army?

Some knotty questions are raised by Herr Adenauer's request for a central police force of 25,000 men for Western Germany. The chancellor presumably had in mind the small East German "People's Police" army.

But if this proposed new Western force is to be trained and equipped solely for standard police duties, then it will be in no better position to oppose the East German army than the existing decentralized police in West Germany. If it is to be in fact a back-handed way of starting a West German army, then it would violate United States policy against rearming Germany.

There will be suspicions, reasonable suspicions, in some quarters that creating such a force would be an unnecessary relaxation of the democratization effort in West Germany. For one part of the Allied program to remake West Germany in the image of a perfect democracy has been to decentralize the police.

The argument has been that, if German policemen are to become public servants instead of poor men's tyrants, then they must be subject to local control. A strong central police force can be a potent force for oppression.

Perhaps this concept has been proved wrong. Perhaps Allied administrators are now convinced, with the example of the central police forces of Britain and France before them, that decentralized police are not an essential ingredient of democracy. Perhaps there has been a serious and unnecessary decline in police efficiency because of decentralization.

But if that is indeed true, then the case should be presented on those grounds. If, on the other hand, the "police force" really is to be a small-scale army, then it should be made clear in everybody's mind, particularly the Germans', that it is indeed a military force. For a mixture of military and police functions can be a dangerous combination. And above all, there should be conclusive proof of the need for a West German army, if that is the real reason for this proposal.

There can be no excuse for letting the Germans hoodwink the West into abdicating any of their responsibilities in West Germany when the requirements of the cold war do not absolutely demand it.

Gen. Eisenhower's Yes-and-No

Gen. Eisenhower's warning to the country about "stupendous military expenditures" is puzzling in view of the fact that only two months ago he was urging Congress to increase an already-stupendous military budget by half a billion dollars.

The General says the problem of expenditures for the armed services is one of the major problems to be faced in the future, and virtually everyone will agree with him. The meat in the coconut, however, is how to face it, and as to that he does not say. Shall it be by making tremendous outlays more tremendous, as the General advised in April, or by looking at tremendous outlays with a reserved eye, as he advises in June? And since Gen. Eisenhower still says, now, that tremendous expenditures are necessary, just what is the citizen or the member of Congress to do?

When Gen. Eisenhower says that careless charges of Communism should not be indulged in, as he said recently, his advice can not only be applauded, it can also be understood. He did not say, at various times, that it was desirable, dangerous, and necessary, as he said of the big military budget.

It is barely possible that a virus of double-statement is in the air—or perhaps less a virus than a miasma. President Truman recently said that the world was in a grave state, in an appeal to Congress for funds, and later said the world was getting on much better, thank you. The specific remedy for this ailment is the simple declaratory sentence, and we commend it to the General, the President, and whomever else should be concerned.

Chiang Hits at Graft

Chiang Kai-shek has ordered sternest measures against any of his officers or troops or other personnel caught engaging in graft.

This comes much too late. It was early in the war in the Pacific when outrageous corruption came to light on the Burma road. Every inch of transport space was needed for supplies for soldiers fighting the invading Japanese. These forces included many Americans.

Yet military requirements were often set aside or dumped and luxury items went up the winding, mountainous road. It was a vicious trade which took its cost in lives.

Granted that Chiang could not have produced the perfect man. But he might and should have gone a lot further in establishing an honest regime. The fact that he did not is one of the reasons he is today discredited and isolated on an island of last retreat.

What Are the Blodgett Case Facts?

Has there been a violation of academic freedom at the University of Illinois in the case of economist Prof. Ralph H. Blodgett?

The economist's colleague, Prof. Donald L. Kemmerer, says there has been such a violation and that the Dean of the College of Commerce, Howard R. Bowen, and the head of the Department of Economics, Prof. E. E. Hagen, are responsible. According to Prof. Kemmerer, who took the unusual course of speaking to a public meeting, the administrative superiors forced Prof. Blodgett to leave by stripping him of his courses. In any event, Prof. Blodgett is quitting Urbana for the University of Florida.

The University of Illinois has been singularly free of academic freedom cases. This is all the more reason to find out whether there has been high-handed procedure here. If there has been, the people of Illinois are entitled to know it. If there has been no such trespass, that fact should be made known. The one best agency to look into these charges is the American Association of University Professors, a branch of which is at the University of Illinois. It has a long record of investigating academic freedom cases. The A.A.U.P. is just as able to say, on the facts, that there is no case, as it is to castigate a dictatorial university administration.

Meantime, President Stoddard should move promptly to relieve the tensions which the Blodgett case has created. A situation such as this can quickly do untold damage within a university faculty.

Mission Accomplished

One of the techniques ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman has used to get first-class personnel into the Marshall Plan organization is that of the leave of absence. He has persuaded a great many able executives to take a year or more from their work at home to serve their country abroad. This means turnover in ECA personnel, but also a high level of competence.

Barry Bingham, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, is one of those who contributed their talents and experience to making the Marshall Plan work. For a year he has been chief of the ECA mission in France. Now, having served his allotted trick, he is coming home to resume his editorial duties at Louisville.

It is an occasion for congratulations both ways. The country can thank him for a job well done in Paris, and the newspaper business is happy to welcome back an able editor.

Back-Door Segregation

What of a draft law that permitted the individual draftee to choose what unit he would be assigned to?

What of a draft law that permitted the individual draftee to decide what uniform to wear?

Or a draft law that permitted the individual draftee to demand any type of training suitable to his own conceptions of military service?

None of these suggestions is inherently any more absurd than the Russell amendment to the draft-extension law now before the Senate. The Russell amendment would allow the enlisted man to choose whether he would serve in a unit of his own race. Under this proposal a single draftee could, if he chose, cause the Army to abandon the policy of non-segregation toward which it has so successfully been moving.

We cannot believe that the Russell amendment is anything more than a gesture, but the Senate should strike it decisively. When the obligation of military service must be imposed on citizens the terms on which they will serve must reflect the national conscience, and cannot be left to individual choice.

Gladewater Lives Democracy

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Texas town answers totalitarian ideologies by showing what democracy means, speaker says; one week was set aside for "Gladewater plan"; schools taught responsibilities of militant citizenship; local governments held open meetings and churches were filled.

From an Address by Mark Day at the Citizenship Conference of the National Education Association, Washington

I would like to tell you something of our "Democracy Beats Communism Week," which took place in Gladewater, Texas, from March 20 to March 26, 1949, and which is commonly known as the Gladewater plan. The week was set aside that the people of Gladewater, Texas might study democracy and live democracy for one solid week, and thereby become more conscious of the blessings that we enjoy under our form of government.

The citizens of Gladewater adopted the following creed: The citizens of Gladewater, fully aware of the great battle of ideas between democratic and communistic ideologies in the world today, are undertaking to renew their faith in democracy and bring about a new birth of freedom. Therefore, we are adopting a plan of militant citizenship, education, religion and civic responsibility, inclined to reawaken the individual citizen's pride in his democratic heritage.

By our practical demonstration of democracy, we hope to set off a spark to be followed by the 10,000 other Gladewaters in these United States, thereby giving hope and inspiration to the whole world.

Weapon Against Communism

We believe that the best weapon against Communism is an active and intelligent participation in public affairs on the part of our people. Unless Americans are capable of defending our economic and political system on an intelligent, logical basis we will have lost our heritage. Democracy is not an accomplished fact. It is an unceasing crusade.

Local and state governments are still the foundations of democracy. When we inform ourselves about these agencies, and through these established institutions solve our own problems we set an example and give hope and inspiration to America and the world. This is our answer to Communism.

Although religion can function without democracy, democracy cannot function without religion. With this in mind, major importance was placed on the churches' part in democracy. "Democracy Week" opened with a "Go to Church Campaign," which was endorsed and emphasized by the ministers and church people of Gladewater with the result that of the 8000 residents of Gladewater, 6000 of them attended church on that day.

The second project was "Brotherhood Night." This featured three prominent speakers, Jewish, Catholic and Protestant. All the churches called off their midweek meetings and attended the interfaith meeting.

The third project was to emphasize in our schools that in addition to the three R's — readin', 'ritin' and 'rithmetic — the Gladewater plan dealt with another R, responsibility, pointing out that it was just as important for young people to learn how to be responsible citizens as it was to learn how to make a living.

Open House at a Library

The fourth project stressed civic responsibility. Citizenship and civic responsibility are greatly inter-dependent, but workers on the Gladewater plan felt there was a great need for placing more emphasis on each. They stressed the importance of taking a more active part in civic affairs, a greater pride in your home town, and its educational and cultural facilities. A city beautification plan was launched, and was a tremendous success. There were 2000 new trees and 3000 new budding plants set out on public and private property in the city during the week.

Gladewater has a fine library, but many people were not familiar with its facilities. Open house was held at the library and people were urged to avail themselves of the opportunities offered.

The young people were encouraged to learn about the city and county government. An open meeting of the city commissioners and the county commissioners court was held to which everyone was invited. For one day the city government was turned over to the senior students from the high school. A mayor, commissioner, chief of police and other officers were elected at an election held at the high school, and they learned by actual experience how city and county government is carried on.

Lesson for Other Towns

The plan embraced more people working on committees than any program ever before attempted in Gladewater. The bugaboo of actually getting people to work on committees was downed. Everyone who was asked took an active part in the plan. Everyone was enthusiastic and much was accomplished.

We believe that what was accomplished in Gladewater during "Democracy Beats Communism Week" can be accomplished in 20,000 other towns and cities in these United States.

Return of the Puppets

From the Bulletin of the National Geographic Society

One of the oldest forms of drama, the puppet show, is in the "smash hit" business these days. The modern magic of television has given the clever manikins a stage and an audience such as they never commanded before. But this unprecedented wave of popularity is not entirely a matter of electronics. Puppets are also doing right well in "live" performances, presented to enthusiasts by more than a hundred professional companies now annually touring the country.

The use of puppets is so old that its origin has been lost. The early Hindus, Egyptians, Greeks and Romans all created such movable dolls, capable of human-like antics through manipulation.

Chinese legend tells of a puppet presentation for the emperor a thousand years or so before Christ. So deceptively true to life were the performers that the monarch became jealous when they appeared to flirt with his wives. He had the show's master condemned to death, and not until the puppets were dismembered to prove their inanimate nature was the execution stayed.

Some researchers says the first motion pictures were the ancient puppet shadow plays of China and Java. In the Javanese wayang, still performed for the island's delighted native audiences, fantastic little leather figures act out old legends and myths in shadows cast by a bright light on a cloth screen.

In the West, it was from medieval Italy, famous for its traveling puppet troupes, that the art spread over Europe. Gradually, favorite characters emerged to charm each nation's children—and grownups. In France it was Guignol. Germany had its Hans Wurst; the Dutch Jan Pickel-Herringe; England its Punch and Judy. Thousands of puppet companies now are reported to be operating in postwar Europe.

In America, while wandering companies are recorded before the middle 1700s, puppet shows had a limited appeal at first. The art had a revival in the United States during the early twentieth century, but it remained for the current boom to make puppet history. This country now has one of the world's few exclusively puppet-making factories, turning out annually nearly 50,000 toy actors.

Shriek With Horror

SHRIEK WITH PLEASURE, by Toni Howard. (Prentice-Hall, 257 pgs., $2.75.)

Patricia Highsmith in The Saturday Review of Literature

"This is, frankly, a sensational novel," begins the jacket blurb of "Shriek with Pleasure" and, there is no doubt about it, American readers are going to shriek with horror very soon after making the acquaintance of the heroine, Carla MacMurphy.

Carla is a young American newspaper correspondent in Germany who spends more time drinking than writing and more time sleeping around than doing anything else. Indeed, her hoppings in and out of beds, if totaled up throughout these 257 pages, might set some kind of sexo-literary record for the year. Especially is Carla willing if the young man, or even old man, can write her Washington Globe-Dispatch column for her or be of any other service, however trivial. One such character even as a heroine wouldn't be such a surprise but Miss Howard has cast all her other characters, American newspaper correspondents and military personnel—the representatives of America in Germany, in other words —in the same mold. The only personage of value as a human being is Charles Poignon, a French political writer, who unfortunately falls in love with Carla but has the manhood to throw her out of his life when he discovers the pampered, corrupt little whatsit that she is.

Toni Howard

The second reaction of American readers will be to wonder how much of this is typical. Since Carla nowhere runs into difficulties in her bribing, plum-grabbing, and seducing, we presume the author means to say: "All the Americans in Germany are like this."

As to story, Carla shacks up with a correspondent named Bill Somers in Berlin, leaves him for the Frenchman in Munich, leaves him for several others, and acquires a magnificent Tatra automobile, purchased with American cigarettes, which she loves better than anything. At the end of the book the Tatra is taken from her—it was stolen goods and she knew it—and her last boy friend deserts her. But this isn't retribution by any means. Carla is on her way to the Far East for more of the same fun and is already making eyes at the airplane co-pilot. Not much of a story but the author tells it with swinging strokes that hammer home her theme: corruption.

Toni Howard was a correspondent herself from the Normandy invasion until after the Nuremberg trials. There is a wonderful ring of authenticity in her background and her characters, too. That is what makes her novel so disturbing.

The Great Admiral

NELSON THE SAILOR, by Capt. Russell Grenfell, R.N. (Macmillan Co., 235 pgs., $3.)

There have been many books on the dauntless Horatio but this one is a welcome addition. It is shorter and more concisely written than many old standbys. And, naturally enough since it is by a naval officer turned writer, the emphasis is on the qualities by which the tragic little man became a leader of men and eventually one of the greatest admirals of all time. Here and there, where the author feels the evidence requires new estimates on accepted beliefs about Nelson, he makes his challenge. Some Nelson worshipers may be shocked by such statements as: "In fact, Nelson's tactical comments during this period are not only somewhat loose and inconsistent, but even questionable in principle."

Anyone between ages 15 to 90 who is interested in sea warfare and naval heroes will be delighted with this book. Author Grenfell lives up to the reputation he won in his fine naval narrative, "The Bismarck Episode," wherein he recreated the suspense and thrill of the tracking down and sinking of the Nazi battleship.

WHISTLE-STOP TALK BY TRUMAN AT MEXICO, MO.

By JOSEPH DRISCOLL
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., June 10—In the only whistle stop talk of his Missouri tour, President Truman came out flatly yesterday in favor of Missouri-bred saddle horses, Missouri-manufactured fire brick, Missouri blue grass seed — and Emery Allison as his candidate for the United States Senate from Missouri.

This four-point unequivocation from the Missouri-born President came in the course of an impromptu speech from the rear platform of his observation car as the presidential special halted for a few minutes at Mexico, opposite the Wabash station and the Hoxsey Hotel, 117 miles from St. Louis and 163 from Kansas City, Mo.

It was raining hard as the Truman-Wabash cannonball ground to a stop, but 5000 men, women and children braved the downpour. As Truman appeared on the back platform the rain stopped and the sun broke out.

Special Edition of Paper.

The Mexico Evening Ledger, only daily newspaper in Audrain county, had whipped up enthusiasm with a special Truman souvenir edition running to 20 pages. The paper advertised Mexico as the capital of Missouri's "Little Dixie" and the "Saddle Horse and Fire Clay Center of the World." In his remarks, the President indorsed the local products and took a fling at a foreign product, the Chicago Tribune, published 326 miles away.

Truman's talk was recorded as usual by Jack Romagna, White House shorthand reporter who transcribed his notes as the train bounced over the Wabash roadbed at about 50 miles per hour. The text, an example of pure Truman whistle stopping, follows:

"Mr. Mayor, Gov. Smith, Senator Allison and ladies and gentlemen: This certainly is a treat. I did not anticipate that we would have the opportunity to stop on this nonpolitical trip to Columbia, but I am glad we found it possible to stop in this city. This district has produced some very great men. You have a Congressman from this district, Clarence Cannon, who is the chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives. He has the most powerful job in the Congress except the chairmanship of Ways and Means Committee. He passes all the appropriations for the operation of the Government of the United States. He is an able, distinguished and efficient Congressman, and I sincerely hope you will return him. And I believe you will.

"In times past, you had another great Congressman from this district, Champ Clark, who was Speaker of the House of Representatives and almost became President of the United States. Champ Clark was a great advocate of education. He was anxious to see the young people of this country attain and obtain all of the things possible for them to obtain, which he himself found out as a teacher. His sympathies were always with education in this country.

Cites Chicago Tribune.

"Now, back in times past it has been said that people were wasting money on education, that the country was going socialistic. You would think that that came out of the Chicago Tribune today, but it didn't. That was published in 1830, when we were trying to get a free public school system for the children of this country.

"Now, there is nobody in the country who wants the Federal Government to control the schools. Nobody wants that done. All we want to do is to be helpful in producing a school system that will meet the demands of our day.

"I was in Columbia at the graduation exercises over there. Some 2000 students received diplomas today—becoming citizens to go to work in the economy of this great nation of ours.

"I want to see this coming crop of young people—and a lot of you are here before me today—have access to the best educational facilities that they can possibly have. And I am trying to get the Federal Government interested in providing help for that purpose. We would not have had a road in the United States or an international highway had it not been for the fact that we were willing to co-ordinate the highway systems of the United States under a road system. If we can build roads, why can't we build for the heads as well as for the feet and wheels?

"I think we can do it, and I am going to fight for it until we do get it done.

"I want to say to you people here in Mexico that I have always felt at home here. I have been in this town many and many a time for various reasons. I have made four campaigns, two primary campaigns and two regular campaigns for the Senate of the United States, and I never missed this city on a single occasion.

"I like saddle horses—which we sometimes used—blue grass seed and fire brick—and it is nice to be back here again in the headquarters where all of those things are located.

"I sincerely hope that it will be my privilege some time to come back here, as I used to in times past, when I won't cause so much commotion and when I can see all my friends and shake hands with as many people as it is possible for me to do.

"It is certainly grand of you to come out here today. I have with me on the train the Governor of the great State of Missouri — a Democratic Governor, if you please. I have with me a candidate for United States Senator From Missouri — a Democratic candidate, if you please—who will represent Missouri as it ought to be represented in the Congress of the United States. And I hope —I sincerely hope—that you people will do your part towards seeing that Emery Allison comes to the Senate of the United States this fall in the November election.

"Thank you very much for this wonderful demonstration, and this wonderful turnout."

President, Sister in Piano Duet at Middlebush's Home.

President Truman and his sister, Mary Jane, played a piano duet for about 50 luncheon guests at the home of President Frederick A. Middlebush of the University of Missouri at Columbia yesterday.

First Mrs. Middlebush asked Charles G. Ross, the President's press secretary, if it would be all right if she asked Truman to play the piano. Ross said it would be quite all right.

Without much coaxing, the President sat down at the piano. He played a few chords and said, "That's all I know." With a little more persuasion, he played excerpts from Paderewski's Minuet and Mozart's Ninth Sonata.

Then his sister joined him and they collaborated on "The Jenny Lind Polka."

The President recalled that he taught the "Jenny Lind Polka" to his sister when she was 5 years old and later to his daughter, Margaret.

Later, joking with reporters, Truman remarked: "Just think how much better off the country would have been if I had been a music hall pianist."

The piano duet followed a luncheon of Missouri country-cured ham.

On the train trip from St. Louis to Columbia, the President visited the diesel engine cab, where he checked the gauges and presided briefly over the controls.

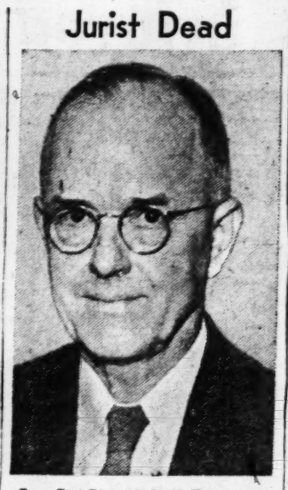

He chatted with Engineer Samuel R. Cannon and Fireman Charles H. Cox, both of Moberly, Mo.

"This is a pretty nice job for the engineman," Truman remarked. "I wonder if I could get one of these jobs?"

Walking back to his car, he asked with a broad smile: "Couldn't you tell the difference when I had my hand on the throttle?"

JUDGE ALBERT M. CLARK

ALBERT M. CLARK, STATE SUPREME COURT JUDGE, DIES

Elected to Two Terms in Tribunal After Serving as Representative, Senator.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., June 10 (AP)—Albert M. Clark, who ascended through the ranks of county and state politics to the Missouri Supreme Court, died last night of a heart attack.

The 71-year-old judge, who had been ailing recently, was stricken as he prepared to go to bed about 10 o'clock. He died within a few minutes.

He had been in Columbia yesterday to attend the University of Missouri commencement exercises at which President Truman received an honorary degree and was the speaker.

Judge Clark was a longtime friend of Gov. Forrest Smith. Both came from Richmond.

Informed in St. Louis of his friend's death, Gov. Smith said, "Judge Clark was a great Missourian who loved Missouri."

"I regarded him," the Governor said, "as one of the greatest jurists that ever sat on the State Supreme Court bench. He was a practical man, full of good, old-fashioned horse sense."

Judge Clark's first political triumph was being elected prosecuting attorney of Ray county, in which he had been born and schooled at the town of Lawson. He attended Vanderbilt University and was admitted to the bar in 1900. He was prosecuting attorney from 1913 to 1916.

He served the county as Representative in the Legislature from 1917 to 1920 and was a member of the constitutional convention of 1922 and 1923. A long respite followed during which he practiced law in Richmond.

In 1931 he was elected to the State Senate and served two terms. For two years he was president pro tem and several times, in the absence of the Governor and Lieutenant Governor, served as the acting state executive.

From the Senate, in 1938, Clark moved to the Supreme Court, being elected to a 10-year term for Division One. He was re-elected in 1948 for a term due to expire in 1960.

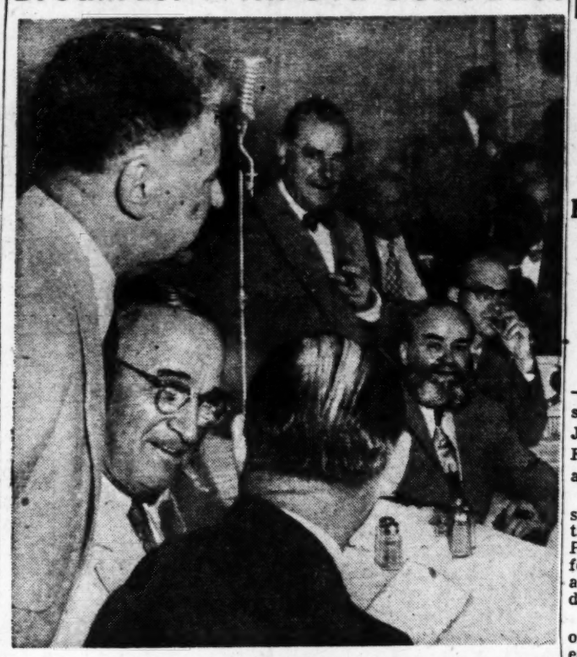

During his first term, Judge Clark served as chief justice for 17 months.

Judge Clark was noted for his brevity of speech. In an old newspaper clipping he was compared with silent Cal Coolidge, then President, in both his use of the minimum words and appearance. Judge Clark wore glasses and regularly smoked a pipe.

He married Mrs. Bessie Zimmerman, from his birthplace, Lawson. She survives.

Three daughters also survive. They are Mrs. David Harrison of Jefferson City; Mrs. Powell B. McHaney of 2 Ridgemoor drive, Clayton, and Mrs. Bernard Galbreath of Fort Worth, Tex.

Breakfast With Old Comrades

Former battery members in the photograph, all from Kansas City, are EUGENE P. DONNELLY, toastmaster (standing); FRED L. SCHMIDT, seated at the President's right, and across the table, JOHN A. oped and brought with him a synthetic spare tire," and expressed hope it would not interfere with his marching in the reunion parade. The "Attorney General" announced that radar had detected 50 cases of beer submerged in ice water in the battery headquarters at Hotel DeSoto, and the "Secretary of the Treasury" delivered a report on "vice and gambling." Battery members are "too old for vice, but I did find some gambling and confiscated $8.69," he reported.

"Repayment" by K.C.

Discussing what was to be done with the confiscated gambling funds, the "President" and his "cabinet" decided to give $2.69 to St. Louis as assistance in the crisis in municipal funds. A "letter" to Mayor Darst explained that the contribution was from the "gentle element of the battery, who live in Kansas City, and who wish to repay St. Louis for the kind things you have had to say about us."

Following a report by the "Secretary of the Navy" suggesting transfer of the battery to the Navy, apparently in the interest of unification, the breakfast gathering broke up with a short talk by the President. He told his former comrades: "I am pleased you do not live in the past, but are here for a good time. Most of you have grandchildren, and it looks as if the descendants could form a new division if there ever is an emergency, which I hope will never occur. I know you will help our country go forward in its destiny."

Recognizes "All."

The President added: "It is a pleasure to be able to recognize all of you, as usual. I don't think I had to be told who was behind a single face."

Music for the breakfast was furnished by the "Sour Note Club," made up of Battery B, 128th Field Artillery. The group was led by Claude W. McElwee, attorney, and instruments included guitars, a banjo, musical saw and a musical jug. The tunes were mostly World War I numbers popular with troops of that day.

FORRESTAL NOTES SAID TO TELL OF AMERASIA ACTION

Paper Reports He Intervened to Inform Truman — Diary May Be Opened Monday.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The Washington Star said today secret diary notes of the late James V. Forrestal will show that Forrestal intervened in the Amerasia magazine case in 1945.

The paper said the notes will show Forrestal, then Secretary of the Navy, acted to be certain that President Truman was fully informed of the matter "and not, apparently, with any intention of delaying the arrests."

It said Forrestal moved on his own initiative and from the highest motives. The paper said the notes will show he feared the episode would "greatly embarrass President Truman in his dealings with Russia during the critical days the United Nations was being established at the San Francisco conference."

The Forrestal data, the Star said, are expected to be made available Monday to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee. The Senators are looking into the Amerasia case as part of their investigation of charges by Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, that Communists are employed by the Government, and particularly by the State Department.

Raiders Seized Papers.

The Amerasia case involved the alleged theft of hundreds of secret Government papers. Agents of the wartime Office of Strategic Services and the Federal Bureau of Investigation recovered the papers in raids on the New York headquarters of the magazine, which no longer is published.

Six persons were arrested—one of them a lieutenant of naval intelligence against whom charges were dropped. Two of the six were fined, the others released.

The Star said the references to the Amerasia matter were found in diary notes among Forrestal's papers in New York.

Besides showing concern for Truman in his dealings with Russia over the U.N., the Star said the notes will show that Forrestal said:

1. He telephoned FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and urged him to have Tom Clark see that the President was "in full information of all the facts in the matter as well as their implication." Clark, now a Supreme Court Justice, then was in charge of the Justice Department's Criminal Division.

2. He directed James K. Vardaman, then the newly-appointed White House naval aide, "to see to it that the President was informed on the matter." Vardaman, a former St. Louisan, denied to the Senate committee Thursday that he ever had anything to do with the Amerasia case. He now is a member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Says Vardaman Is Firm.

The Star said Vardaman, upon being informed of the notes in Forrestal's papers, stood by his emphatic denial that he knew anything about the Amerasia matter.

It quoted Vardaman as saying he knew about the diary before he made his statement and that, owing to other activities in which he was engaged at the time, Forrestal could not have taken the matter up with him.

Testimony before the Senate committee has been secret, but reliable sources have reported that Vardaman's name was mentioned by Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes, then an assistant secretary of state.

Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney was reported to have told the committee that Forrestal was the high Government source understood to have intervened to delay arrests.

Arrests Delayed 9 Days.

The Star said Forrestal's suggestion "apparently delayed action until the matter came to the attention of Mr. Truman."

Holmes, now American minister in London, has said he went to the White House and personally laid the matter before Truman. That was on June 2, 1945. Truman, it has been brought out in testimony, then ordered the Justice Department to proceed with the case. The FBI made the arrests on June 6—nine days after Forrestal reportedly intervened.

Philip Jaffe, editor of Amerasia was fined $2500 on a charge of conspiracy to obtain illegal possession of government documents. Emmanuel S. Larsen, a state department employe, was fined $500. Charges against Lt. Andrew Roth, the naval lieutenant, were dropped. A grand jury refused to indict three others.

Jaffe has been subpoenaed to testify before the Senate committee Monday. The Star said it is expected the Forrestal notes will be laid before the group at the same time.

Forrestal's personal papers have been kept private since his death. Republican Senators, including Brewster of Maine and Knowland of California, have been demanding that they be made public in connection with the Amerasia matter. Knowland has referred to a Forrestal diary as having been locked in a White House safe.

SOME OF STUDENTS IN PROTEST EXPELLED

Several at Mercy High School Are Barred From Return Next Fall.

Several Mercy High School students who took part in the June 2 demonstration against the release of Peter Palumbo as athletic coach have been in effect expelled from the school, it was learned yesterday.

Parents of the students were informed at the end of the school term last Thursday that their children would not be permitted to return next fall. Mrs. Sylvia Smith, 1128 Meyer avenue, University City, said she was told her son, Wally Weisguth, was being dismissed "because he was a ringleader" in the demonstration.

The Rev. James Curtin, assistant superintendent of Catholic high schools, refused today to say how many students had been expelled and for what reasons. "I can't see why the internal discipline of the school is a matter of public concern," he said. "If some students have been let out, it might be because of the demonstration and it might not."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Larkin, 10122 Niblic drive, overland, said it was "strongly suggested" to them that they find another school next fall for their son, Dan, an honor student.

Meetings between school officials and parents of the approximately 100 students who participated in the demonstration were held last Friday and Monday nights at the school, 1004 Pennsylvania avenue, University City. Parents were told the matter would be forgotten if the students wrote letters of apoloby.

Mrs. Smith, who said her son wrote his letter along with the rest of the demonstrators, said she felt he had been singled out unfairly. "I wouldn't send him back there now even if they asked me to," she said.

In the demonstration, the students marched about the building chanting "We want Pete!" Many refused to return to their classes for two hours. Palumbo, who had been coach since the school opened two years ago, had been asked to resign earlier that week.

MRS. VANDENBERG DIES AT 67; SENATOR'S WIFE

Pursued Career to End Despite Illnesses—Former Newspaper Woman.

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—Mrs. Hazel Whitaker Vandenberg, wife of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, died early today. She was 67 years old.

Mrs. Vandenberg has had spells of serious illness since she underwent two major operations in 1947. Despite this and her many duties as a Senator's wife, she continued active until recently in a varied career of her own.

She served for a time as national chairman of the University of Michigan Alumnae Association and led in a drive for a $1,000,000 Woman's League building at the university.

In World War II, she held a full-time job in the Red Cross, as director of camps and hospital services. She had served six years as national vice president of Delta Gamma sorority, was active in the Y.W.C.A. and was a member of the national Campfire Girls board.

But first of all, her friends said, she was a companion and good right arm to her husband, the Republicans' chief foreign policy spokesman in the Senate.

She accompanied him to many of the international conferences at which he played important roles after the war.

"Pops needs me to look after him," she explained. "He won't stop working long enough to eat unless I make him."

Mrs. Vandenberg always took her typewriter along on these trips. A one-time Chicago newspaperwoman, she helped her husband with his speeches and occasionally gave a hand to reporters covering them. Senator Vandenberg was with her when she died in their hotel apartment.

Just before the 1948 Republican Convention when her husband was a possibility for the presidential nomination, Mrs. Vandenberg declared she hoped he did not win the honor.

Mrs. Vandenberg was the Senator's second wife. They were married June 14, 1917, a few years after the death of his first wife. They had first met as students at the University of Michigan.

The oldest of the three Vandenberg children was only 8 at the time, and the new Mrs. Vandenberg became a second mother to them. Arthur Jr., the eldest, now is with one of the Rockefeller development corporations in Brazil. The two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Pfeiffer and Mrs. Barbara Bailey, live in Grand Rapids, Mich.

FLEESON

Senators Push Statehood of Alaska, Hawaii

Survey Indicates Favorable Committee Report.

By DORIS FLEESON.

WASHINGTON, June 10.

At last a sincere effort is under way in the Senate to fulfill both parties' platform pledges of statehood for Alaska and Hawaii.

Next week Chairman Joseph O'Mahoney will bring the statehood bills to a vote in Interior and Insular Affairs. The Administration has made its own check and believes they will be favorably reported. Both have passed the House with a good margin.

Further encouraging news is that Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, one of the Senate's better cloakroom commandos, has agreed to lead the floor fight to put Alaska over. It is felt that when the Democrats get behind Alaska where Democrats are in the majority, Republicans will rally to Hawaii which has consistently sent a Republican delegate to Washington.

Timeliness of Debate.

A peculiar timeliness attaches to the statehood fight. The Senate will be debating statehood for the two United States territories fronting on the Orient and Russia at the exact moment that Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and John Foster Dulles, State Department consultant, are in Japan working on the problem of a peace treaty.

The task of the negotiators at Tokyo is to reconcile United States defense needs with democratic leadership of the free world. That leadership emphatically disavows territorial aspirations. It is precisely because the United States has no territorial aspirations that statehood for its territories has always been its goal, proclaimed by its Presidents and major parties alike.

Aside from the question of justice to Alaska and Hawaii, whose hopes have been long delayed, backers of statehood believe the entire Orient will vibrate to such an affirmative expression of American idealism. It will represent practical propaganda, they insist, for which Communism can find no answer.

Action on Safer Frontiers Urged.

In the midst of the cold war it is not going to be possible to satisfy all of Japan's desires for immediate independence. Statehood advocates argue that action now on the safer frontiers of the two territories will provide the Japanese with a rational hope that when the iron grip of necessity is relaxed, they, too, will be wholly free.

A favorable Senate committee vote will not bring statehood all the way home. Majority Leader Scott Lucas, who faces a hard fight for re-election, is allergic to putting any more controversial bills on the calendar. The weight of the Administration, however, will be on him for this one.

Senator Hugh Butler of Nebraska, ranking Republican on Interior, fears Communism in Hawaii. He has been attempting to form an alliance of isolationists and Dixiecrats, his argument to the southerners being that four new Senators will mean dilution of the South's influence in the upper chamber.

Strongly opposing the Butler position is Hawaiian delegate Joseph Farrington, a popular and influential Republican whose wife is national committeewoman and president of the National Republican Women's Clubs.

Alaska does not suit the book of some Republicans. These include Senator Robert Taft who complains it is too sparsely populated to maintain a state government and consists chiefly of federal payrollers, all Democrats.

RAIN DELAYS MUNY OPERA PERFORMANCE 25 MINUTES

Light rain delayed last night's performance of "Brigadoon" at the Municipal Opera for 25 minutes. An estimated 7400 persons attended the second of the 11 performances of the season's opening production.

The lowering skies and scattered raindrops added realism to the opening scene, a mist-shrouded glen in the Scottish highlands. The rain held off until 3 a.m., when a thundershower lasting an hour and a half began. About .14 inches of rain fell in the city, three-fourths of an inch at Lambert-St. Louis Airport.

COALITION CANDIDATE PICKED TO OPPOSE MARCANTONIO

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—James G. Donovan—a Democrat—was agreed on yesterday by county Democratic and Republican leaders as their coalition candidate next fall against left-wing Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP), New York.

Passed over as coalition choices were two other Democrats—Assistant United States Attorney Thomas F. Murphy, who prosecuted Alger Hiss, and Justice James J. Lanzetta of the domestic relations court.

Marcantonio, serving his fourteenth year in Congress, told reporters he had no comment on Donovan's selection.

MEIGS FROST DIES; STARTED LOUISIANA SCANDAL INQUIRY

NEW ORLEANS, June 10 (AP)—Meigs O. Frost, soldier and writer whose newspaper reporting touched off the Louisiana scandals of 1939, died yesterday after a long illness. He was 67 years old.

Frost started the investigation into the Louisiana scandals when he wrote a story for the New Orleans States reporting that window sashes built at the Louisiana State University shops were transported to New Orleans for use in a home being built by a friend of the then Gov. Richard W. Leche.

The investigation resulted in the downfall of the rule by associates of the late Senator Huey P. Long and in the imprisonment of several leading political figures. The story won for Frost a medal for "superior work" awarded in 1940 by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity.

In 1934 he received an honorable mention for a Pulitzer Prize.

He was the author of four books: "A Marine Tells It to You," "I'm Alone," "Old New Orleans" and "Antoine's of New Orleans."

JOSEPH A. BURKE DIES, WROTE SONGS FOR MANY MOVIES

PHILADELPHIA, June 10 (AP)—Joseph A. Burke, who wrote many of the songs we've been singing since talking pictures came in, died yesterday at his suburban Upper Darby apartment. He was 66 years old.

He left behind tunes that will live for years—"standards" they call them in Tin Pan Alley. Here are a few: "Carolina Moon," "Oh, How I Miss You Tonight," "Yearning," "I'm Dancing With Tears in My Eyes," "In a Little Gypsy Tearoom," "A Little Bit Independent," "Moon Over Miami," "My Harbor of Dreams," "Rambling Rose" and "For You."

Burke, born in Philadelphia, was a pianist from childhood. He played in school orchestras and composed songs while attending high school and the University of Pennsylvania. Later he was on the staff of music publishing houses in New York and film studios in Hollywood.

MORE STATE POLICE SENT TO RAYON PLANT AFTER RIOT

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., June 10 (AP)—A report of a rock-throwing ambush of workers' automobiles by mob brought 30 additional highway patrolmen today to the strike-bound American Enka Corp., rayon plant.

Patrol Sgt. Carl Gilbert said a caravan of 12 cars carrying workers from the plant after the midnight shift was set on by 75 to 100 men. He added that one car was overturned and one workman slightly injured by flying glass. Enka attorney T. W. Iserman of New York said at the scene it was probably the "most violent episode" of a turbulent, 10-week-old labor dispute at the plant.

The outbreak had subsided by the time the new patrol detail rolled in to reinforce eight already here.

Birds' Victory Over Braves Offsets Bad Report on Injured Players

Surgery Ordered for Garagiola's Shoulder; Giants Open Here Today

By Bob Broeg

The three-fold fact that they still were tied for first place, that their biggest bat was back in business and that they continued to hold an Indian sign over one of their chief pennant rivals today took some of the sting out of a discouraging clinical report released on the crippled Cardinals.

Between defiant communiques to parties who would like to dictate when and where he could sell his seats, soda pop, hot dogs and pop corn, Owner Fred Saigh glumly disclosed that:

First Baseman Nippy Jones would be sent home, presumably out of action for a year in which he never got started;

Catcher Joe Garagiola would be lost for at least eight more weeks with a shoulder separation requiring corrective surgery;

And neither Outfielder Chuck Diering, who fractured an elbow Tuesday, nor Pitcher Ted Wilks, who was eligible to come off the disabled list yesterday after elbow surgery a month ago, would accompany the Redbirds Monday on a 17-day trip against the top-flight contenders.

Loss of Garagiola Hurts.

Because the club is short on catching strength, by far the biggest blow was the announcement that Garagiola, a .347 hitter who has come into his own as a receiver, would be operated on Monday at Deaconess Hospital for correction of a shoulder-blade displacement described by Dr. C. H. Crego, a bone specialist, as "very serious." The surgeon expressed belief, however, that the young home-town catcher, hurt nine days ago in a hard fall, would be able to resume a promising career.

The decision to leave Diering behind was expected, but it was thought Wilks might be ready to pick up the baton as the National League's top relief pitcher. However, the official word was that he would need at least a few more days of galvanic wave treatment to eliminate post-surgery numbness in his pitching hand.

The verdict on Jones, who underwent an operation last fall at Los Angeles for removal of a disk from between two vertebrae, was left to Saigh and Manager Eddie Dyer. Dr. Crego, who took bone chips out of Eddie Kazak's right ankle last October, said he believed Jones could pinch-hit or possibly play a few innings now. But when the surgeon said the hard-hitting 25-year-old player could come back next season "positively," owner and manager decided to send Nippy home for a complete rest with the hope recovery would be hastened.

Two Doubles, Triple for Stan.

The unfortunate break for the Jones boy has been offset to an extent, of course, by the shift that returned Stan Musial from the outfield to first base, and The Man last night came out of his slump at Sportsman's Park, where the Cardinals once more exercised their mastery over the fourth-place Boston Braves.

With Musial whacking two doubles and a triple in three official times at bat, the Redbirds scored an 8-5 victory that served actually to emphasize their whammy because Boston couldn't win this time even with four home runs. The Cards now have taken 21 of the last 27 from the Braves, including five of six this season, and since Billy Southworth headed for the greener pastures of New England five years ago, the former St. Louis skipper has lost 60 of 94 games to successor Dyer and his athletes.

While Musial finally unloaded and the Braves reached the fences four times, led by a Walker Cooper who would look particularly good in a Redbird uniform now, the spotlight really was on Capt. Enos Slaughter of the Cardinals and—in reverse—on Bob Hall, handsome Boston right-hander who runs Jack Kramer a photo-finish second as a clothes-horse and sun-bronzed boulevardier.

Enos Goes .440 in Last 19 Games.

Slaughter drove in three runs with a first-inning single and a fourth-inning homer. The dean of the Redbirds now has knocked in 33 runs and his batting average has reached .341 on the strength of a torrid .440 pace through the last 19 games.

By contrast, Hall had a night that set back the gentle art of pitching even more than the assembly-line manufacturing of runs throughout the majors this season. Making his first start after serving as a relief man, the Boston sophomore couldn't hold the ball most of the time and when he did, he balked.

Failing to pause the full second required under the 1950 rules with men on base, Hall balked across a run in the first inning and moved up a runner similarly in the third. And after twice hitting Kazak with pitches—one didn't count because he already had balked in his delivery—the rangy 26-year-old righthander reached a new intercollegiate low in the fourth, the inning in which the Cardinals added enough runs for a wilting Max Lanier to become generous with home-run pitches.

In the fourth Hall didn't do anything right except find the dugout when Southworth finally waved him off after the Cardinals held a 6-1 lead. With one out, the Boston pitcher couldn't close his glove on successive grounders hit by Lanier and Harry Walker and, after chasing and retrieving Walker's ball, he made a two-base wild throw past first. Then while preparing to deliver a full-count pitch to Red Schoendienst, Hall made what at first appeared to be a clever T-formation hand-off to first base.

Ball Drops—Another Balk.

The catch was that there was no runner or baseman at that bag. Actually the ball slipped out of Red-Faced Robert's hand while he was bringing his hands to his chest, and, whether intentional or accidental, the rule is implicit about the pitching version of drop-the-handkerchief. It was Hall's third balk and the second to usher in a run.

After watching his gray-uniformed counterpart, Lanier might have decided to get into the comedy mood, too, by throwing a semi-automatic fence ball twice to Cooper and once each to Earl Torgeson and Sam Jethroe.

The joke, as usual when the Braves are playing the Cardinals, was on Boston because no one was on base when the four homers disappeared just ahead of a weary Lanier after Big Coop's second circuit drive in the eighth inning.

Gerry Staley, who has had too much trouble to have a sense of humor on the mound, faced and retired five batters before any innocent bleacherite could join the hospital list.

Redbird Notes.

Leo Durocher's red-hot New York Giants, who have won seven straight and nine of their 10 games on this swing through the west, will call for an afternoon game today at 2:30 and a double-header tomorrow at 1:30.

Righthanders George (2-2) Munger of the Cardinals and Clint (2-0) Hartung of the Giants probably will be the starting pitchers this afternoon.

In addition to Musial and Slaughter, Schoendienst and Walker were the only Redbirds active at bat as they collected two hits apiece. Cooper led the Braves with three.

Rain fell just before game-time and again briefly early in the contest, and attendance was limited to 11,852, dropping the Cards about 10,000 below last year's gate over a similar period.

Saigh Continues Plans For Sunday Night Game Despite Chandler Order

Preparations to play the first Sunday night game in big league baseball in St. Louis July 16 were going ahead today despite orders from Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler and Ford Frick, president of the National League, to cancel it.

Fred M. Saigh Jr., owner of the Cardinals, said ticket sales and plans for his team to meet the Brooklyn Dodgers in a Sunday night game at Sportsman's Park were continuing pending a hearing before Chandler over the disputed National League rule on Sunday night baseball in the majors.

Frick Cites Rule.

Chandler had ordered the game canceled because "it would not be in the best interest of baseball" to play a game "at a time when thousands of people are going to church." Frick also told Saigh to call off the game, citing an amended rule, adopted last winter, which he said prohibits Sunday night games in the major league.

The disputed rule follows:

"No night game shall be scheduled on a "getaway" date without the consent of the visiting club. . . . or on Sunday." (A "getaway" date is the final day of a series of games between two teams.)

Saigh interprets the rule to mean that a Sunday night game can be scheduled with the consent of the visiting team. He said he has that consent from the Brooklyn management. Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers, has declined comment.

Telegram to Chandler.

In a telegram to Chandler, Saigh pointed out that Sunday baseball is legal in Missouri; there have been no objections from church groups to the proposed game; 59 minor leagues play baseball Sunday night and to be consistent the commissioner

The proposed game is a playoff of one postponed a week ago today because of rain. The Cardinals have a regularly scheduled game the afternoon of July 16 with Brooklyn for which there would be one admission charge and for the proposed night game with the Dodgers another admission would be charged.

Man, 17 Horses Die in Fire at Denemark Farm

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP) — A watchman perished and between 17 and 22 race horses burned to death last night in a fire which destroyed the huge barn on the Emil Denemark Farm near suburban Hinsdale. Denemark estimated the loss at $700,000.

Among horses that died in the fire was Curtice, which last year won the $57,850 Futurity at Washington Park race track.

Denemark said he recently refused an offer of $100,000 for Curtice.

John Cooney, 38, a watchman, who lived in the barn, said the flames spread rapidly and dense clouds of smoke soon were billowing from the 320-foot long, 40-stall wooden structure.

Cooney said he and Frank Nemecek, 48, the watchman who perished in the flames, attempted to rescue some of the frightened animals but were driven back by the intense heat.

He said Nemecek apparently was overcome by smoke and died inside the barn. His body was recovered later by firemen.

Red Hot Giants in Fifth Place

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP) — Now Leo Durocher can say "I told you so." With "my kind of team," Leo is turning the dope topsy turvy in the National League.

The New York Giants drew nothing but boos and catcalls in April and May. In June, they're the darlings of Broadway. Since Leo's gang moved West, they've been red hot.

With seven straight wins and eight out of nine on their second Western tour, the Giants lifted themselves by their bootstraps from seventh to fifth place.

Only one game under .500 and just five and one-half behind the leaders, the Giants command new respect in the pennant race. Currently they can't do anything wrong.

The ninth inning is their specialty. In nine games they scored 64 runs, 17 of them in the ninth. Coming from behind to snatch a win is becoming a habit.

. . . . Now into Fifth Place. . . . .

Turned out they didn't need yesterday's five-run explosion in the ninth at Chicago but it nailed down a 9-3 decision. The result boosted the Giants past the Cubs into fifth place.

Eddie Stanky, the Giants' spark-plug slashed Johnny Schmitz and Frank Hiller for four singles, a perfect day. Wes Westrum chipped in two homers, helping Larry Jansen home with an eight-hit victory, his fourth.

Despite the commotion to the rear, Brooklyn and St. Louis continued to match steps in a first-place tie. The Dodgers squeaked past Pittsburgh, 9-7, in the afternoon, but St. Louis came right back to take an 8-5 night verdict over Boston.

Manager Burt Shotton called in Don Newcombe, his ace, when the Pirates threatened in the ninth. Big Don made Danny Murtaugh hit into a game-ending double play. Roy Campanella's two-run homer in the eighth and Pee Wee Reese's homer in the ninth led the Brooks home safe.

Detroit salvaged the last game of three at New York, crushing the Yankees, 13-7, in a game marred by an injury to the Yanks' Bob Porterfield. Porterfield suffered a fractured jaw and concussion when hit on the left cheek bone by a pitched ball thrown by Reliefer Paul Calvert in the seventh inning. His condition was reported "good" at the hospital.

The Tigers mauled Yankee pitching for 16 hits, pulling within one and one-half games of the league-leading New Yorkers.

Zoldak Pulls "Joe Page."

Sam Zoldak pulled a "Joe Page" with a fine relief job to protect Cleveland's 8-7 edge over Washington. Zoldak, fourth Indian pitcher, needed only two pitches to stop a Washington rally and give Bobby Feller his fifth win.

Chico Carrasquel scored an unearned run off Bob Hooper in the eighth inning for Chicago's 3-2 edge over the Philadelphia Athletics. The Athletics' attendance continued to be most discouraging with only 2709 for the night game.

Browns Face Strikeout Leader Allie Reynolds

NEW YORK, June 10—The Browns, having ended the Red Sox jinx over them with a rousing 12-7 victory at Boston, hoped to win their first game of the year from the Yankees here this afternoon. It was the opener of a series of three games that will include a Sunday doubleheader.

Dick Starr was the Brownie hurler, seeking his second victory of the season. Allie Reynolds hurled for the league leaders, hoping to score his fifth triumph. Reynolds is the strikeout leader in the American League. He had 55 strikeouts going into today's play.

Bill Sommers, 25-year-old infielder who had a prominent part in yesterday's victory over the Red Sox, was at third base for the Browns in place of Leo Thomas.

The Ladies' day attendance was estimated at 15,000.

The play-by-play:

FIRST INNING — BROWNS—Lenhardt popped to Rizzuto, Kokos struck out. Lollar lined to Coleman.

YANKEES—Rizzuto bunted and was out, Lollar to Arft. Mapes was hit by a pitched ball. Collins struck out and Mapes was doubled attempting to steal, Lollar to Upton.

YANKEES — DiMaggio was robbed of a home run when Lenhardt leaned over the low left-field rail to make a glove-hand catch of Joe's drive. Berra walked. Woodling singled to left, sending Berra to third. Brown flied to Sievers in short center. Berra and Woodling tried a double steal and Berra, who could have been retired, was safe at the plate when Friend made a bad relay home to Lollar. Woodling reached second on the error. Coleman was thrown out by Upton. ONE RUN.

SANTA CLARA, Calif., June 10 (UP)—Outfielder Joe Nally and pitcher George Stein of the Santa Clara Bronchos have been signed to professional baseball contracts, it was revealed yesterday. Both were signed by Joe Devine, veteran New York Yankee chief scout, to Beaumont, Texas League, contracts, but will be optioned to the Class C Twin Falls, Ida., team in the Pioneer League.

Bilko Hits Two Homers, Drive In Four Tallies

SYRACUSE, June 10 (UP)—Steve Bilko, whose fat tummy cost him his first chance with the St. Louis Cardinals, may earn his second trial with his big bat.

The first baseman crashed his eighth and ninth homers since the Cardinals returned him to the Rochester Red Wings last night as the International League leaders walloped the Syracuse Chiefs, 9 to 3, behind Bill Reeder's 10-hit pitching.

Bilko blasted his first homer with a mate aboard in the first inning to send the Wings off to a 2 to 0 margin. He crashed his second—also with a mate aboard—in the sixth to highlight a four-run uprising.

The victory extended the Wings' lead to a game and a half over the Montreal Royals, who lost to the Jersey City Giants, 9 to 5. The Baltimore Orioles beat the Toronto Maple Leafs, 6 to 3, and Buffalo and Springfield split a double header, the Cubs winning the opener, 9 to 1, and losing the nightcap, 3 to 1, in other games last night.

Medalist Jim Jackson Carries St. Louis Hopes in State Golf Final

Geiss Is Beaten in Overtime

KANSAS CITY, June 10—Warren Riepen of St. Joseph, the 1948 champion, knocked in a six-faat putt for a birdie three at No. 18 to gain a one-up advantage over St. Louis's Jimmy Jackson at halfway in their Missouri amateur title golf match today.

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

KANSAS CITY, June 10—Jimmy Jackson, the power golfer from Greenbriar Hills in the St. Louis District, had reached a new peak today as he prepared to play for the forty-third Missouri amateur championship.

The boyish 27-year-old athlete who had been unable to reach a tournament final since he won the St. Louis District junior title in 1940, faced former Missouri champion Warren Riepen of St. Joseph, in a 36-hole title match.

Medalist in the tournament and a large margin winner in the first three rounds, Jackson proved he had the stuff when he defeated Kansas City's iron duke, the 32-year-old Bob Willits.

Jackson mastered Willits, 2 and 1, in an 18-hole semi-final. Riepen gained tne title round with a 2 and 1 victory over Kansas City's Ray Watson, following an earlier, suspense-filled triumph over defending champion Jack Geiss of St. Louis.

Dark Day.

It was a dark day for Geiss, who took advantage of Riepen's mistakes to come from a three down and four to go situation to extend the match to the twenty-third hole. The overtime was brilliantly played, as the 18-hole match progressed the farthest of any played in five postwar state tournaments.

But while Geiss had to lose to the experienced, 37-year-old Riepen, Jackson held Willits at arms length for most of their semi-final match.

The Greenbriar swinger was in the rough too much but after a three putt green on the first hole, his putter helped him several times, sinking a 30-footer to win No. 10, after he had gone out in an approximate medal of 33, two under par, Jackson was then three up. Willits, in trouble at No. 8, had conceded an eagle to Jackson who almost reached the 540-yard green in two.

But Jackson bogied three of the last eight holes, lost two of them, and didn't close out the match until he bettered Willits's fine approach at No. 17, he sank a six-footer to win with a birdie.

Previously Jackson's best in state tournament play had been his advance to the quarter-finals a year ago at St. Louis Glen Echo.

In Riepen he was faced with one of the most formidable opponents the tournament could have produced. Riepen is currently the St. Joseph city amateur champion, the Monterrey, Mexico, amateur champion and the Rio Grande Valley amateur champion.

Was Pro Once.

He gets around a little more than Jackson does. Jim is just the St. Louis Open champion, a 36-hole tournament honor he has won two years in a row. Riepen is a construction worker who commutes from here to the southwest. He once was a professional, but gave it up.

Riepen's putter was hot most of the day during the quarter-final and semi-final rounds. Despite the brilliant efforts by Geiss, who chipped in from 20 feet to top a 30 foot putt by Riepen on the 21st hole, Riepen refused to crack.

This was obvious after once again Geiss topped a Riepen six-footer at the twenty-second hole with an eight-footer. And when they finally reached the twenty-third hole it was Geiss who missed a 12-footer and Riepen who made one of almost that length. The regulation on distance developed a chance in a lifetime finish for Geiss. When Riepen three putted No. 17 to let Geiss square the match, Geiss was feeling better. But when Geiss drove off No. 18 tee and landed behind trees and had to play a low fade out, he got in a trap 70 yards short.

Ties Match.

But he hit it on the green about 50 feet away and after Riepen knocked his first putt up for a gimme, Geiss knocked in his 50-footer to tie and prolong the match.

Though Geiss failed in his attempt to repeat, St. Louis continued with a good batting average with one of the finalists. There were 10 St. Louisans to gain the 32 place championship draw, only four gained the round of 16 but those four moved into the round of eight and Jackson carried the banner the rest of the way.

Jimmy, who was seven over par for medalist honors with 147, was one over for his two matches the second day of man-to-man competition. Riepen was one under par in his last two matches. He was even with par against Geiss.

St. Louis's Milton Frank lost out in the quarter-finals, bowing to Willits, 5 and 3. Harry Pailer also dropped out in that round when a ball marker in the green caused him to three putt on the 19th hole and lose to Kansas City's Watson.

Top Man for a Day in U.S. Open

E. J. (DUTCH) HARRISON, the St. Charles (Ill.) pro, who led the field in the United States Open tournament for one day with a 139 score for two rounds but slipped today and lost the lead.

Mangrum Takes Lead In U. S. Open Golf As Harrison Slips

ARDMORE, Pa., June 10 (UP) — Dapper Lloyd Mangrum, bidding for his second United States championship, shot a one-under-par 69 in the third round today to take over the lead in the National Open golf tournament with about one third of the field in. His total for three rounds was 211.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who held a one stroke lead on the field after two rounds as they teed off today, slipped to a four over par 40 on the first nine and wound up with a 73 for a 212 total.

Shooting precision golf, Mangrum went out in 37, one over par, but came home in 32, two under to become the only par buster among the early third round finishers. A fourth round also will be played today to complete the tournament.

Straight driving and remarkable approach shots enabled Mangrum to take the lead, two strokes better than Johnny Palmer of Baden, N.C., who had a 54-hole total of 213. Palmer shot an even par 70 in the third round.

Among the early third round finishers, those still in the running include George Fazio with 217, Johnny Bulla with 218, and Joe Kirkwood Jr., and Al Besselink with 219s. Fazio shot a third round 72, Bulla 78, Kirkwood 74 and Besselink 76.

Gene Sarazen, winner in 1922 and 1932, appeared licked when he shot an 82 for a 54-hole total of 226. Also with their chances probably gone were Henry Picard, whose 79 gave him 221; Paul Runyan, who had a 73 for 222; and former National Amateur Champion Robert (Skee) Riegel with a 79 for 221.

Spiked's Backers Nailed When She Runs Away Twice

Spiked, a two-year-old trained by R. A. Mattingly, was scheduled to run only four and one-half furlongs in the juvenile race on last night's program at Fairmount Park.

However, she unseated her rider, Elvie Hust, at the gate and then went for a three-quarter mile gallop. After she was caught she again ran away from the lead pony boy.

Thus what appeared to be just a short race, turned out to be a long evening for Spiked. After the start of the event, the daughter of Hash-Convival, was never much of a factor, getting off in eighth place and finally finishing fifth.

Bill Green, trained by Frank Orr, turned up the winner at the good odds of $13.80 for $2. Aunt G. was second and Devilish Pat, third.

There was another deadheat, when the judges, after viewing the pictures could not separate Nice Peggy and Ruth's Vacation for third place. Cherry Ripple was the winner with Handy Pal, next.

The card was witnessed by 6384 fans who bet $125,393.

Fans will have to decide between previous winners in several of the events. For instance in the fourth, Black Fantasy, Helen's Honey, Politics and Dayton have all won. The sixth has Camolino, Live Band, Meadow Grey, Kitty Kat and Deltoid. In the seventh will be Moonblend and Flying Sandy, while in the eighth there will be Miss Bobby Sue, Plucky Marge, You'llbesorry and Rotate all of which have been in the winner's circle.

Hill Prince Is 4 to 5 Favorite for Belmont

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—Hill Prince and Middleground, plus seven other colts that seem to be particularly concerned about third place money, were scheduled to have it out today in the $75,000 Belmont Stakes.

Ten were entered but only one of the two C. V. Whitney hopefuls was slated to start.

This is the third and toughest leg of the traditional triple crown for three-year-olds. Hill Prince or Middleground could just about wrap up the 1950 sophomore championship parading home on top in the mile-and-one-half grind—particularly Hill Prince.

Although Middleground copped the Kentucky Derby with Chris Chenery's Hill Prince second, the Virginia Flyer reversed the order in the Preakness. Middleground couldn't do it for King Ranch and Texas in the Preakness, where Hill Prince flew home winner by five big lengths. In their four meetings to date, Hill Prince holds a 3-to-1 edge.

The nine horses expected to parade to the post at 3:47 p.m. (St. Louis time) are, in addition to the two big ones, C. V. Whitney's Mr. Trouble, Hal Price Headley's Lotowhite, George D. Widener's Lights Up, Clifford Mooers' Hawley, Brandywine Stable's Greek Song, and the Brookmeade Stable entry of Greek Ship and Sunglow.

Trainer Syl Veitch entered Dooly, third horse in the Preakness, but said he would scratch him unless the track became muddy. The weatherman says it will be partly cloudy and warm, so barring a hard rain, it looks as if Mr. Trouble would carry the Whitney silks.

With nine starters, the purse would have a gross value of $91,950. The horse hitting the winner's circle will get a cup, and $61,350 to put in it. There is $15,000 for second, $7500 for third, and $3750 for fourth place.

The Prince Is 4 to 5.

The overnight odds listed Hill Prince at 4 to 5, with Middleground next at 4 to 1.

Hill Prince wound up his training yesterday with a half mile spin on the main track.

All jockeys were lined up, with the exception of Lotowhite. Eddie Arcaro will try for his fifth Belmont on Hill Prince, and Ted Atkinson will attempt to make it two in a row with Mr. Trouble. He rode Capot, the 1949 winner.

Eric Guerin has Sunglow, Hedley Woodhouse is on Greek Ship, Bill Boland on Middleground, Ovie Scurlock on Greek Song, Glen Lasswell on Hawley and George Hettinger on Lights Up.

All starters carry 126 pounds.

A film of the Belmont will be telecast over KSD-TV at 9 p.m.

Fish Are Biting

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 10 (AP)—The fish are biting everywhere in Illinois except for some central zone counties, the State Conservation Department reported yesterday.

Crappies, bluegills, bass, northerns, catfish, bull heads and carp are the species being caught most frequently.

Department investigators said herring and perch are being caught in weed beds and bullrushes on Lake Michigan. Chain-o-Lakes, Wolf lake and Calumet lake are good spots for crappies, bluegills and northerns in northern Illinois.

Central zone investigators reported good bass fishing at Twin lakes in Edgar county and at Canton lake. The catfish are biting on Spoon river near Benadotte dam.

Two outstanding perch spots are Myers dam and Quincy dam.

In the southern zone, "extra good" crappie and bluegill angling is reported for Richland county. Bass and bluegills are hitting at Moose lake in Edwards county. Good bass, crappie and bluegill strings are being taken from Horseshoe and Crab Orchard lake.

Shift in County Transit Authorized

Duplication of routes by the two companies will be reduced from 34.4 to 11.6 miles, it was reported. In addition, the mileage of routes serving the same immediate area in the county will be cut from 15 to 3.

Public Service Changes.

Public Service Co. was authorized to:

Abandon outright Kirkwood 01 and Creve Coeur 05 streetcar lines, and Brentwood 57, Dale-Hanley 58, Etzel 111 and Airport 122 bus routes.

Establish new bus line to replace University City portion of abandoned Creve Coeur streetcar line, with the following route: Start at Delmar loop, north on Kingsland to Vernon, west to Midland, northwest to Hanley, north to Page, west to present intersection with Creve Coeur tracks, and loop. Until construction of Vernon is completed, line will use Olive boulevard.

Establish new "stub" line on Jennings bus line to serve Berdell Hills. Busses on this alternate line will leave regular route at Bermuda drive and Florissant road, go over Bermuda to Woodstock avenue, and loop.

County Transit Changes.

Abandon Florissant-Ferguson-Wheaton line north of Wellston, and remaining portion rerouted and re-named Wheaton line, with the following route: Start Delmar loop in University City, west on Delmar to Midland, northwest to Balson, west on Balson and Jackson to Hanley, north to Shaftesbury, west to North and South road, north to Page, east to Creve Coeur drive and loop.

Abandon Jennings line, and portion remaining re-routed to become part of new Wellston-Maplewood line, with the following route: Start at Easton and Irving in Wellston, west on Easton to Evergreen, south to Wells, west to Ogden, south to Page, east to Delaware, south to Etzel, west to Sutter, south on Sutter and Westgate to Delmar, west to Big Bend, south to Manchester, east to Yale and loop.

Abandon Kinloch line outright.

Extend Overland line to Maryland Heights, starting at Fee Fee and Dorsett roads, north on Fee Fee to Midland, west to Delord, south to Harding, east to Reading, south to Dorsett, east to Fee Fee and thence over regular route.

Re-oute Olive line, starting at Olive boulevard and Pennsylvania, north on Pennsylvania to Etzel, east to Kingsland, south to Delmar and return over same route.

Establish new Midland bus line to replace part of abandoned Creve Coeur streetcar line. Start Page and Creve Coeur drive in University City, east on Page to Hanley, north to Ellerton, west to Eads and to North and South road, northwest to Midland, northwest to Gilrose, north to Lackland, west to Midland, west to Ashby, north to Breckenridge and loop.

Establish new Creve Coeur Lake line, starting at Reading and Dorsett, west on Dorsett to Marine, north to Creve Coeur Lake and return.

Establish new Rock Hill line to replace Brentwood, Dale-Hanley bus lines and part of Kirkwood streetcar line. Start Highland and Dale, west on Dale to Big Bend, south to Lindberg drive, southwest to West Bruno and Bredell, south on Bredell to Folk, west to Hanley, south to Manchester, west to Rock Hill, south to Lockwood, east to Gore, north to Kirham, east to Brentwood boulevard, north to Manchester, east to Hanley, north to Folk, east to Bredell, north to Lindbergh, northeast to Big Bend, north to Dale, and east to Highland.

Optional Route.

(The commission said county transit may, if it wishes, operate between Hanley road and Brentwood boulevard over Rosalie or Eulalie, instead of Manchester.)

Establish new Kirkwood-Clayton bus line to replace Kirkwood streetcar line. Start at Central and Forsyth, Clayton, west on Forsyth to Brentwood boulevard, south to Manchester, west to Sappington, south to Lockwood, west on Lockwood and Adams to Kirkwood road, south to Big Bend, west to Couch, and loop.

(The commission gave permission for the following alternate line on this route, beginning at Brentwood and Manchester: south on Brentwood to Kirkham, west to Sappington, south to Essex, west to Woodlawn, south to Gill, west to Fillmore, south to Washington, west to Clay, south to Adams, east to Fillmore, north to Gill and return.)

Re-route shuttle line in Webster Groves, starting at Gore and Lockwood, north on Gore to Kirkham, east to Brentwood and Marshall, north on Brentwood and continue over present route.)

Board Retains Jurisdiction.

Under the majority order, the commission will retain jurisdiction in the case for the purpose of ordering restoration of the former service of either Public Service or County Transit, if there should be any showing that service under the new arrangement was inadequate.

The order also contains provisions apparently intended to force county municipalities to grant local permits for use of streets designed by the commission for the new bus routes and extensions and re-routing of existing lines.

It provides that if Public Service and County Transit are unable to obtain the necessary authority for use of the streets, the companies are excused from operating the new bus routes. The effect would be to permit abandonment of the lines without any provision for substitution of bus service for the routes dropped.

Under a previous order last year, the commission authorized Public Service to substitute busses on several streetcar lines. But refusal of Glendale and Overland to permit use of their streets for busses blocked the scheduled bus substitution on the Kirkwood and Creve Coeur lines.

Dissent on Two Lines.

In their separate dissenting opinions, Osburn and Henson expressed no objection to abandonment of streetcar operations on the Kirkwood and Creve Coeur lines, but asserted that Public Service Co. should be required to operate the substitute bus lines because it is the strongest company.

In his opinion, Osburn said County Transit "admittedly stands on the brink of bankruptcy," and in comparison to the Public Service Co. it is "very adolescent."

"The plan before us, which the majority of the commission is reluctantly willing to try for a while, will give considerable financial aid to Public Service," the chairman said. "In fact, I am inclined to believe that it is the principal beneficiary of the majority report and order, with County Transit receiving the small remaining residue of the bequest.

"Disregard of Public Interest."

"I am quite positive the citizens who reside in the communities along the Kirkwood and Creve Coeur lines will not inherit any benefits from this 'comprehensive' plan. It is because of the total disregard of the public interest that I oppose this part of the plan, and I might add that the prime factor of selecting the predominant carrier in the field was, in my opinion, entirely overlooked in respect to these two lines.

"The citizens of communities which have been served by Public Service since before the beginning of this century are to be left and deserted by one of the strongest transit companies in America.

"Instead of traveling from Overland, Kirkwood and other cities to St. Louis via one strong company at one fare, they will be charged two fares to be hauled there, and in some cases over circuitous routes, via two companies."

Fiscal Problem Unsolved.

The chairman declared the plan will not solve County Transit's financial problems, and he raised the question whether there might be subsequent joint applicants by "these two friendly and co-operative companies" seeking further withdrawals of Public Service from its county transit responsibilities in favor of the other firm.

Henson said in his opinion that if the Public Service fare on the Kirkwood and Creve Coeur lines is unjustifiably low for such long rides, it could be augmented by an additional zone fare which still could be held below the aggregate fares that will be charged riders by the two firms.

He contended the approved plan did little to help County Transit, because the company will be permitted to continue other highly unprofitable lines which are not covered by the order.

Osburn and Henson also objected to abandonment of the Brentwood and Dale-Hanley bus routes of the Public Service Co. which under the plan will be replaced by new County Transit bus routes.

Doubts of Majority.

The three commissioners expressed doubt as to whether the plan will materially aid the County Transit firm whose attorney told the commission during a hearing on the application that the company may have to quit unless a solution was found to its financial problems.

"Due to the unsound financial position of County Transit, we have great concern as to the propriety of permitting Public Service to permanently withdraw from its routes in the county and relinquish its business to County Transit," the majority opinion said.

"Were it necessary for us to consider our actions in this case a finality, it would be doubtful if we could consider such a transfer as being in the public interest.

"We seriously doubt that the immediate relief that will accrue to County Transit will be lasting or will extricate that company from its financial dilemma. It is imperative therefore that the course of action we prescribe in this case be in the nature of a temporary or trial basis."

Although adoption of the proposal will cause some inconvenience and force some persons to pay higher fares, the majority opinion contended the resultant fares will not be inequitable, and over-all transportation needs of the communities justify the cost and inconvenience Public policy, they said, demands that County Transit be kept solvent.

Transfer Interchange Rejected.

The majority opinion dismissed as too costly a proposal for interchange of transfers between the two companies.

If applied on a system-wide basis, it was reported, it would cost Public Service $360,000 a year. If applied only to those lines involved in the plan, it would cost Public Service $186,000 and County Transit $155,000 a year.

The majority commissioners pointed out that County Transit is losing $7549 a year on its Ellisville, Oakville and Creve Coeur lines, which were not involved in the pending case. They admonished the company to re-examine these operations to make certain there has been no undue subsidization on these unprofitable routes by its more profitable lines.

Objections to the plan were voiced during the hearing by representatives of many county municipalities and organizations. An appeal from the commission's order may be filed in the courts if a motion for a rehearing of the case is overruled. An appeal would delay the plan from being put into operation.

21-YEAR TOP PRICES IN WEEK'S STOCK TRADE

NEW YORK, June 10 (UP)—General Motors Corp. common stock injected new life into what many thought was a waning bull market this week, and sent the industrial average to a new high for nearly 20 years.

High-grade leadership ruled the latter sessions of the week. Practically all the steels, motors, electrical equipments, and many of the oils and chemicals made new highs for the year and longer. The industrial average gained more than 3 points on the week and the rails more than a point.

G-M Stock Split News.

Directors of G-M announced late Monday they recommended a two-for-one split in common stock, subject to stockholder acceptance believed sure.

That action came as a complete surprise. It came when the market was wavering, and investment analysts had recommended taking profits and holding cash for a wider decline. On Monday the list had its worst drop since Jan. 12.

Tuesday provided the week's feature and was one of the most interesting days of the year marketwise, according to the experts.

The market opened with a gain of a half point in the industrial average on Tuesday. Then it fell abruptly with the tape four minutes late at 11:18 a.m. At the low made around that time, the industrial average was off more than 2 points.

The market turned around and rose as fast as it had fallen, until it showed a net rise of more than 2½ points. Part of the rise was lost and the average closed the day on a gain of 1.70 points. The spread between the high and low was 5.66 points.

U. S. Steel Takes Leadership.

General Motors on Tuesday opened on a block of 25,000 shares at 91 and topped all issues for turnover during the session with sales of 96,000 shares. It reached an all-time high at 97 up 8½ points and closed at 95¾, up 7¼ points for the day. U. S. Steel was second that day and it firmed fractionally.

U. S. Steel took market leadership on Wednesday and prices firmed further. On Thursday there was a broad advance which carried on into the Friday session, leaving the general average at its best level since 1946 and the industrial average at its best since 1930.

WORKER'S BUYING POWER UP 36 PCT. FROM 1939 TO 1948

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—The average worker's purchasing power rose by 36 per cent from 1939 to 1948.

That is shown in a publication of the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics dealing with a survey of annual earnings of workers covered by the federal social security program.

In actual dollars the average worker's pay rose more than 133 per cent from 1939 to 1948. However, when price increases in that period are discounted, the Bureau said, the worker is 36 per cent better off in terms of things he can buy with the dollars.

This so-called "real wage" gain rose 45 per cent from 1939 to 1944 but diminished to 36 per cent in 1948 due to the postwar price increases.

The average annual earnings rose from $1113 in 1939 to $2600 in 1948. This was caused by a rapid rise in wage rates and introduction of substantial overtime work during the war. As of 1947, the publication said, roughly one tenth of the workers earned less than $1000; one third, between $1000 and $2000; another third, between $2000 and $3000, and the remainder, or almost one fourth of the workers, more than $3000.

Among regularly employed male workers in 1947 at least half of them received more than $2730. At least half of the female workers received less than $1600.

THE PRINCIPIA GRADUATES 89 PUPILS, 22 FROM AREA

Eighty-nine students from 30 states and five foreign countries received diplomas today at ceremonies on The Principia campus, 5539 Page boulevard. Twenty-two of the graduates are from the St. Louis area.

Flashes of Life

Form of Celebration.

HAZELTON, Pa.—Quarters—$20 worth—showered out of a fourth-floor hotel room, but passing pedestrians would have no part of the money manna. They picked the coins up and took them to a policeman.

The policeman went to the hotel room, money in hand, and there he found a happy man.

The man of good spirits said he was Charles E. Watson, a metal-moulding manufacturer from Flint, Mich., and formerly of Mount Carmel, Pa. He was tossing quarters out of the window, he explained, because it was his wedding anniversary and he felt like celebrating.

Proof Positive.

JACKSON, Mich.—Mrs. Harold Murphy put an advertisement in a newspaper when her pet parakeet flew off two days ago.

Then Mrs. James Temple telephoned Mrs. Murphy that she had found a parakeet but wanted proof of its ownership.

So Mrs. Murphy spoke to the bird while Mrs. Temple held the telephone receiver close to its ear. The parakeet stopped eating, turned a few somersaults and tried to climb into the telephone.

Convinced, Mrs. Temple took the bird back to Mrs. Murphy.

GETS 7 YEARS IN ABORTION DEATH OF CLERK FOR VA

BEDFORD, Va., June 10 (AP)—Mrs. Dartha Louise Fulton was sentenced yesterday to serve seven years in prison for the abortion death of Alice Marie Taylor, Roanoke Veterans' Administration clerk.

A charge of murder against the 42-year-old Bedford divorcee was changed to a charge of manslaughter when she pleaded guilty in circuit court before Judge Charles E. Burks. She was indicted on the murder count by a grand jury May 2 and had been scheduled to go on trial next Monday in the court where she was sentenced yesterday.

The body of the Taylor girl was found lying beside a highway on March 24 by a passerby en route to Blacksburg, Va. An autopsy revealed that she had been the victim of an illegal operation.

OATS, RYE, SOYBEANS HAVE SHARP SETBACKS

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—Oats, rye and soybeans ran into a selling squall late in the session on the Board of Trade today. Prices backed down quickly in these pits and also retreated, although to a smaller extent, in wheat and corn.

Trading picked up considerable speed on the downturn. Commission houses were mainly on the selling side, and it appeared that some stop-loss orders were touched off.

Reason for the liquidation in oats and rye was an Agriculture Department crop report issued after the close yesterday. It placed the oats crop outlook above trade expectatoins. The Rye crop was estimated at 22,446,000 bushels compared with 18,697,000 harvested last year.

Lard also took a severe beating. The trade heard that Great Britain, which had asked for offers of cash lard earlier in the week, had turned down these offers as too high and had withdrawn from the market.

The Agriculture Department estimated the oats crop at 1,380,000,000 bushels, which was much larger than an earlier private estimate of only 1,200,000,000 bushels. The Government estimate definitely cames as a surprise to grain men.

The Government's estimate was for a total wheat crop of 945,000,000 bushels.

Real Chiller-Diller On Loyalty Issue

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, June 10.

THE American Broadcasting Co. took its own sweet time about it—11 months—hired two of the best writers in the business, Morton Wishengrad, who had to be relieved at the doctor's orders, and Joel Sayre, who took his place and wrote the final script, and amassed about a ton of material on the subject. The documentary which emerged from all this massive effort, "Clear and Present Danger," a study of the loyalty program in the United States, broadcast Monday night over ABC, was worth all the time and effort. In fact, it seems a shame to waste it on one broadcast. It ought to be repeated.

JOHN CROSBY

"Clear and Present Danger" differed from all other documentaries I ever heard in that it not only examined a very live problem in our society; it also told a real chiller-diller of a story. Even those listeners indifferent to the social commentary implicit in this broadcast remained, I'll bet, rooted to their radios to the end to find out how it all came out. For a documentary, that's high praise indeed. Come to think of it, "Clear and Present Danger," with a little revision, would make a darned good movie. (Actually, the movie people began rallying around the day after the broadcast.)

THE LOYALTY PROGRAM of the United States Government is, of course, a highly controversial issue; it has been damned as a witch hunt and praised as a bulwark of freedom. At the outset of its documentary, ABC took a clear, though moderate, stand: "Far out beyond her own (Russia's) borders hides the fifth column, that feverish army of citizens dedicated to treachery. In distant lands, they are the eyes, the ears and the fingers of the Russian military.

"Taken together these astonishing activities constitute a clear and present danger of substantive evils which this republic has a right to prevent even at the cost of curtailing certain freedoms among one important class of Americans—our federal employes. We therefore take for granted, tonight, the necessity. Our specific task is to review the machinery of the President's Loyalty Order of 1947. Above all, is it effective? Is it just?"

THE ANSWER TO BOTH those questions is—"Not altogether, but it's pretty good." The story starts with an innocent remark dropped by an $8000-a-year metallurgist in a Government bureau at that familiar Washington institution, the cocktail party. The remark is given a cunning, though totally false meaning and passed on to the FBI by an anonymous informant. Soon the metallurgist is up to his ears in investigation. Like a lot of liberals, he had been a member of many Popular Front organizations in the days of the Spanish Civil War, had parted company with them after the Hitler-Stalin pact.

Still, his associations—now listed as subversive—were part fo his record. The metallurgist was working on a highly secret military experiment with the code name of Montezuma and his innocent remark appeared to divulge certain highly confidential information concerning that project. Altogether, it looked bad.

THE REST OF THE STORY is much too complicated to tell here. There are—in this story, at least—disciplined Communist party members working in very high echelons of Government; there are also FBI members working in very high echelons of the Communist party. Everyone spies on everyone else. I don't suppose it would be revealing any secrets to inform you that the FBI won this particular engagement; the metallurgist was exonerated, and the net had begun to tighten around the guilty.

The whole affair was decidedly unfair to the innocent metallurgist, but again it was emphasized that the "clear and present danger" to the nation as a whole justified the roughing up of a couple of innocents. Apart from this editorial message, about which you'll have to make up your own mind, "Clear and Present Danger" is stuffed with meaty information on the workings of the Loyalty Board, the Communist party methods, and Washington in general. I assume it's authentic. Sayre and his assistants got it all from the FBI, the Loyalty Board, the State Department, Senators and Representatives, attorneys in the loyalty proceedings and — most importantly — Government employes who have gone through the ordeal of investigation.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett, Cerf

IN Tempe, Ariz., they tell some tall tales of the early days before the railroads brought civilization—and winter dude ranches. Once a ranch hand was up for trial for horse stealing, and they couldn't find 12 jurors willing to give him a fair shake in court. The judge roared, "There'll be no hanging in this town while I represent law and order! Round up 12 lawyers and herd 'em into the jury box."

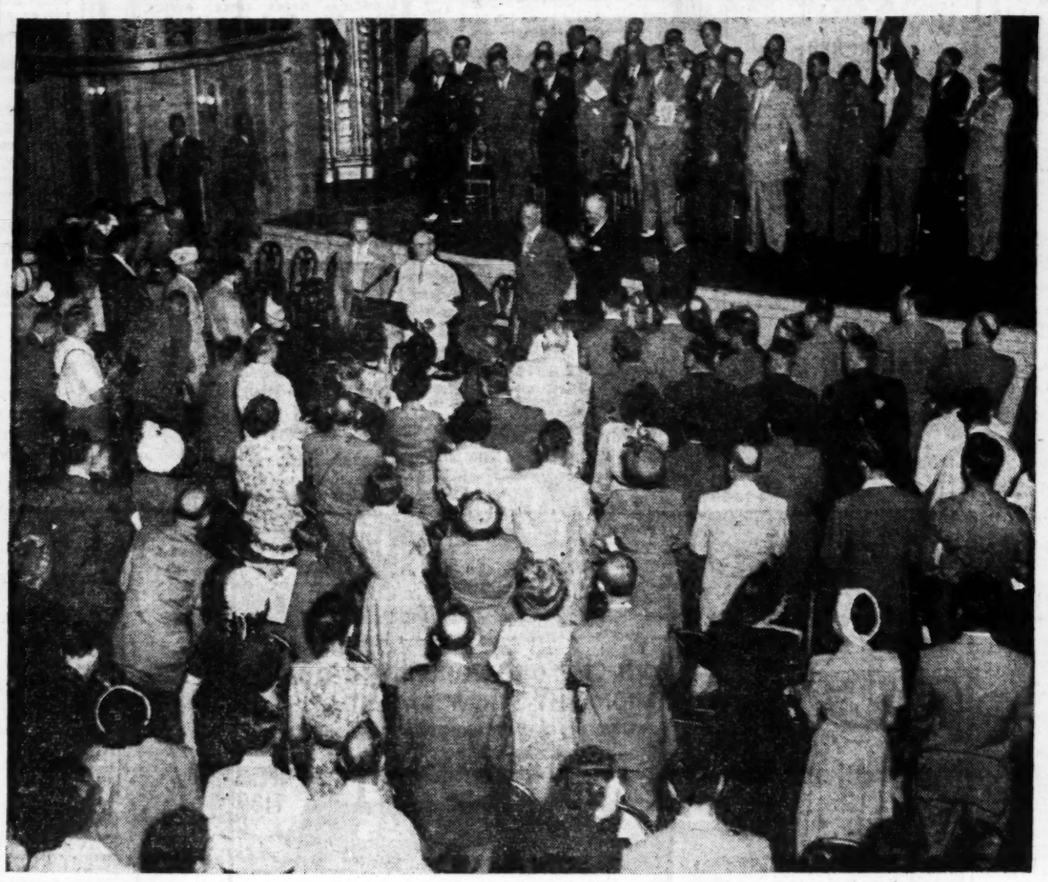

By combing the surrounding country, they managed to find 12 men with law degrees of sorts, and the long-delayed trial got under way. The townsfolk expected a quick verdict of "guilty," and so did the judge, but the 12 lawyers stayed locked in the jury room for eight solid hours. Finally the judge summoned them and demanded, "Haven't you danged fools decided on a verdict yet?" "Heck, Judge," demurred one of the jurors, "we got our verdict in three minutes. What we can't seem to agree on is a foreman."

Truman Addresses Wartime Comrades, Honored at Reception, Ball

Plunging into the second day of a whirlwind schedule, President Truman (white suit) addresses fellow members of the Thirty-fifth Infantry Division at its reunion at Hotel Jefferson this morning. Earlier the President breakfasted with veterans of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery, World War I outfit which he commanded overseas. In the first row on platform (from left) are: Postmaster Bernard F. Dickmann, Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas, Ambassador Henri Bonnet of France, Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, Gov. Forrest Smith and Mayor Joseph M. Darst. In right background are Senator Forrest Donnell (black suit) and former Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann.

The President shares a laugh with Ambassador Bonnet (left) and Secretary Johnson at the veterans' meeting at the hotel. Truman, who has attended each of the 23 previous annual reunions, flew here for the sessions. He will conclude his two-day visit with an address at the dedication of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial on the riverfront, after a big downtown parade this afternoon.

The President makes a point as he converses with a group accompanying him on a stroll through the grounds on the Busch estate. From left: Miravalle, Maj. Gen. Lewis Pick of the Corps of Engineers, the President and Busch. A total of 1480 guests greeted the President at the invitational affair.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM in my teens much in love with a boy a few months younger than I. He liked me a lot, too, until a certain girl came along. He started dating her and that spoiled everything. Now he has broken with her. He says "Hi" to me occasionally. Yesterday he was friendlier. He sat beside me till the show started then he went over and sat with the other boys. I was with some of my girl friends. Usually he sits with some girl. How can I make him understand that I still care for him and want him to sit beside me in the show? I don't go to the show very often so I seldom see him any more.

Perhaps if you hadn't been sitting in the movie completely surrounded by girls, the boy might have remained and sat beside you through the show. Next time he comes over to talk to you before the show you might ask him if he would like to remain and see it with you. Since you are both in your teens, he is probably fickle like most teen-age fellows are, and it is one girl today, another tomorrow. You may be a little more grown up and inclined to take matters more seriously. Surely there are plenty of nice boys in your crowd, so that you don't need to grieve too much over one who doesn't sit with you through a movie.

IN ANSWER TO "C. H. J.": Your wife's first duty is to you. If she must see her mother, that's all right, but she should put that off until another time if it so happens that she is needed in her own house. Certainly when you are ill her place is with you and she should realize this, not walk out on her responsibilities like a child. You have been married a very short time. The first year constitutes a period of adjustment to each other and to marriage. You both apparently have a great deal to learn. You married because you loved each other and chose to spend the rest of your lives together. Don't become discouraged so easily. Talk things over with your wife, try to show her your viewpoint and try to understand hers when you are in conflict. It is not too early to begin to learn that a happy marriage is made of compromises. Might as well learn to make some of them now.

IN ANSWER TO "Stupid": Have you and your husband ever worked out a budget together and tried to live within it? If you would do this he would have only a certain amount to spend on himself and could not throw money away as he does at present. As to working for his father, have you tried appealing to him on the basis of his love for his father, the older man's need of him persuading him through affection and a sense of duty to do what would otherwise not appeal to him? To work for his father will certainly be much better for him as well as for his Dad and his own wife and family in the long run. As things are going at the moment he is getting nowhere fast.

★ ★ ★

IN ANSWER TO "D. H.": Yes, you are wronging your husband and also yourself, and are in a fair way to wreck your marriage, by dwelling this way in the past. You must make a real effort to live in the present. For information regarding that death notice in the small town write the newspaper there, the police or the city hall for details.

IN ANSWER TO "Eagerly Waiting": Your Public Library or the one in the large town nearest you has magazines for writers, writers handbooks, etc., which will give you all the information you are seeking.

IN ANSWER TO "May": If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope I'll mail you my "Showers for the Bride" and "Guide for the Bride."

Price of Peace

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

NOT peace at any price, but "peace at almost any price"—that is the policy of a great many husbands, and Mrs. L. ought to remember it.

"I never thought I was aggressive or bossy or nagging," she explains. "My husband has never complained of such things. He generally lets me have my way, but I always supposed it was because he recognized that it was the right way!

"Lately I overheard some of his relatives talking about me. They say you never hear anything good of yourself, but I was astonished to hear them talking as if my husband were henpecked and browbeaten—by me! Seems to me if that were the case, he would have fought back. He's no milk-sop in the business world, I can assure you. But now I'm upset. How can I find out?"

Next, you ought to realize that your husband's failure to fight back does not necessarily mean that you are not imposing on him. I think it is true that the average man will let himself be imposed on a good deal—by his wife—because he thinks life is too short to be squabbling over trifles. Wives should be all the more on the lookout that they don't abuse this pacifist tendency, says psychologist Edward Montier, who has discussed it in some detail.

Maybe it's largely laziness and indifference, Prof. Montier says. Maybe a man doesn't deserve any particular credit for being a pacifist in his own home. Maybe he carries his love of peace too far, until it becomes surrender to injustice. But it is a fact nonetheless, he declares; and on the other hand he thinks that women, in defense of the best causes, and with the most noble sentiments, "are absolutely exasperating in their way of looking at the subject and attempting to get their own way. They will look at broad questions from the narrowest point of view, will drown themselves in details, continually get away from the real question at issue; they will seize on every slight concession the husband makes, exaggerate its importance, and exult in triumph which is largely imaginary."

MAYBE PROF. MONTIER has been married unhappily; but I think you and other wives would do well, Mrs. L., to take this masculine pacifism into account. Don't suppose you are always right and your husband wrong, merely because he doesn't pick a fight over some issue. Check up on your own aggressiveness and watch your step.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A BRIDE writes as follows of differences in family customs: "My wedding draws near and with it come complications. My fiance's family is foreign-born, and many of his relatives cling to their former customs. In particular, they always bring wedding presents of money to the reception and formally present their gifts to the bride at the bridal table. I will even be expected to provide myself with a white satin bag to put these money gifts in. This will be very embarrassing to me and my family and friends. Knowing how we feel, I'm sure his own family doesn't like it either. But what can anyone do?"

I see nothing embarrassing in following an established (even though foreign) custom. In fact, I think its quaintness very charming. I cannot imagine that anyone will criticize.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

ONE of the good things about match-point duplicate is that it is not necessary to get into "dramatic" contracts such as grand slams or redoubled bids, to have an exciting contest. For example, a certain South earned top score on a board simply because he held his loss to 50 points, one trick, at a mere two-heart contract in the following deal:

North dealer.

	♠Q764 ♥J52 ♦A32 ♣943
♠AJ98 ♥Q873 ♦QJ10 ♣AJ	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠103 ♥109 ♦K865 ♣Q10762
	♠K52 ♥AK64 ♦974 ♣K85

This was the bidding at one table:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1♥	1♠
2♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the diamond queen, which was ducked all around. West continued with the diamond jack. South put up dummy's ace, then led a low heart to the ace. Now he returned his last diamond, simply to exit and let the opponents "break" the suits.

It would have been a very good idea for East to overtake West's diamond ten, and lead either a spade or a club, but actually, East let his partner hold the trick. As the safest way out, West led a low trump, but declarer countered this by putting up dummy's jack, then cashed the heart king and threw West right back on lead with the fourth heart.

Now West had no easy exit, and since his partner had discarded low clubs, discouraging a shift to that suit, West felt that his best bet was to lead a low spade. His relief was short-lived, however. South won with the king and returned a spade. West put up the ace and played back the spade jack, but the queen won, and when declarer then led dummy's last spade and discarded a club from his own hand. West was in once more, and now had to establish declarer's king of clubs.

Thus, through this series of throw-in plays, South garnered seven tricks in a situation that had not looked at all rosy—and by so doing, earned "top on the board."

They'll Do It Every Time

Ideas for Shower Party

By Edith M. Barber

NOT all shower parties are supper parties. They may take place in the evening when simple refreshments are in order. This is when the dainty sandwiches come into their own and will be enjoyed more than a filling dish by those who have already had dinner.

Open sandwiches or canapes, as we often call them, may be chosen as they can be so attractively garnished, or you may like to use the sandwich rolls in the ends of which may be placed sprigs of watercress. A little more substantial and very appetizing are the individual sandwich loaves. Thinly sliced bread may be used for these and covered with spreads of different flavors before they are put together and frosted with cream cheese.

Or how about offering a Make-Your-Own Sandwich tray? There can be bowls of a variety of spreads in the center. Around this may be arranged, in slices, baked Canadian-style bacon, tongue or smoked salmon, then around the edge place over-lapping slices of buttered bread. There may be white, whole-wheat or rye for a choice. Long thin loaves of French bread, cut in slices of just the right size, while those of the other types of bread should be cut in halves or quarters. Coffee, tea or beer or other bottled drinks may be offered with the sandwiches. If you like, you may have a shower cake as a dessert, although you can get along very nicely without any sweet.

Individual Sandwich Loaves.

Twelve slices day-old bread, one five-ounce olive-pimiento cheese spread, deviled ham, mayonnaise, three three-ounce packages cream cheese, milk or cream, watercress.

Trim the crusts from the bread and cut each slice in half lengthwise. For each individual sandwich loaf, cover one strip of bread with the cheese spread and place it on another strip of bread spread with deviled ham mixed with mayonnaise. Cover with a third strip of bread spread with mayonnaise. Slightly soften cream cheese with milk or cream and frost each individual sandwich loaf with it. Arrange them on a chop plate and garnish with watercress.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

STOCKHOLM.

WE had a very pleasant flight from Oslo to Stockholm. Farms, woods and lakes alternating below us as we flew along. A tail wind brought us in ahead of time and we were met by our charge d' affaires, Mr. Cumming, Mrs. Cumming and the Swedish Minister of Foreign Affairs, Osten Unden, and several others in the reception group. We went straight to the Grand Hotel where we are staying.

The board members of the Women's Business and Professional organization invited Miss Thompson and me to an informal and very pleasant lunch. This was followed by the usual press conference with a great number of photographers and a great many press representatives. Rather few questions were asked, however, and those that were referred to my talk in Oslo on the Human Rights Commission.

AT THREE-THIRTY we drove with our Charge d'Affaires and Mrs. Cumming out to Drottningholm, the summer palace of the King. The King was kind enough to see me for a few minutes, and as large a number of photographers as I have seen anywhere in the United States came in to photograph us together. I was particularly glad to have this opportunity to thank King Gustaf himself for giving me the Prince Carl Medal last winter.

Princess Sibylla, after giving us tea, accompanied us on a tour of the rooms on the lower floor of the palace. This was the first time Elliott's children have had an opportunity of seeing rooms, portraits and tapestries that are connected with historical events. They were very interested. It was explained to us that the living apartments have smaller rooms, with very charming paintings and are much pleasanter than the formal rooms which we walked through.

I was also told that the kitchen is situated in one of the wings. This means that the food has to be carried across the courtyard and brought up on a dumb-waiter to the dining room in the central building. In a much smaller way that was what they did in Williamsburg, Va., and in Mount Vernon in our early days. Inevitably this presents a problem when serving hot meals, particularly in the winter months, though now they probably have thermos containers which were lacking in the old days. We were then shown the second floor and later drove home to prepare for our evening meeting.

THE COUNTRY IS picturesque with water on every side. Stockholm seems to have a great number of bridges and also a great many very charming houses and gardens in the outskirts. I am struck by the fact that these Scandinavian cities seem to have no slums and no ugly approaches, such as you would see in approaching one of our big cities. The country looks clean and tidy, the cities are clean and tidy. And yet they told me in Oslo that there are many poorer homes without bathrooms, or any of the facilities to which we are accustomed in the United States. Perhaps when a city is celebrating its 900th anniversary as Oslo is doing, you have reached the point where cleanliness and tidiness are essential, because the results of carelessness would probably be very disastrous.

Sandwiches for the picnic stay wrapped and keep fresher if the waxpaper is sealed with cellophane tape. To make it easier to identify the filling of each sandwich, label each one on a slip of paper and seal under the transparent tape.

For a quick rarebit, melt cheese in condensed tomato soup (undiluted), add dry mustard and other seasonings to taste, and serve over crackers or toast.
